

WEATHER—Unsettled tonight and Tuesday, probably rain. Not much change in temperature. Maximum temperature, today, 62 at 1:30 p. m. Minimum, 55, at 4 a. m.

The Lima News

AND TIMES-DEMOCRAT

HOME EDITION

LAUGH A LITTLE
You can't help it if you read the Duffs, the new News comic.

THIRTY-SIXTH YEAR

LIMA, OHIO, MONDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1921

PRICE THREE CENTS

Handicap

MACHINIST, ahoy! Gerald Ensign, blind since childhood, won a Red Cross scholarship in the University of Michigan. In the college engineering shop he daily runs lathes, planers, shapers, grinders and drill presses. He reads a micrometer accurately and soon will be a tool maker. His eyes are in his fingers.

Watching Ensign move about his machines and all over the shop, you would wonder how he dodges accidents such as clothes caught in machinery. The answer is obvious—constant individual caution. That's the real safety first. Without it, automatic safeguards are not of much value. Play safe.

Champion

AN Orpington hen laid 314 eggs in 336 days, at the Delaware College experiment station. This is said to break the world's record. Four thousand dollars has been offered for the hen, but she is not for sale. The hen doesn't deserve much credit. It was the brains of scientists, clever at cross-breeding, that created that record number of eggs. Some day those brains will make every hen produce as much as this $4000 Orpington.

Most of our important activity in this generation is experimentation—making valuable discoveries for our descendants.

Phenomenal

AMERICA'S youngest married couple with the largest family is claimed by Hallettsville, Texas. August Dornak, 46 years old, and his wife, 44, have 18 children, all living and at home. How would you have liked to support 18 children for the last four years considering the cost of living? Just imagine—40 eggs for breakfast! Oh, death, where is thy sting?

Grind

GRACE WILSHIRE, Los Angeles school teacher married Luther Drake, Omaha banker. A year ago she found herself a widow with half a million dollars in cash. She returns to Los Angeles back to the old teaching job. A school teacher with $500,000 is the eighth wonder of the world. Observe, also, that Mrs. Drake could not keep away from work. Same with you, if you became suddenly rich. After the novelty wore off, "the old grind" would look like the Promised Land.

Saved

FORESTS in the United States cover 463,000,000 acres—more than four acres for each of us. Fires have been destroying 10,000,000 acres a year. Reforestation requires a minimum of 20 years. However—in nine months, on the Pacific coast alone, government patrols of flying rangers discovered 332 forest fires. And a fire is a real fire, in the western woods. Government aviation is paying for itself dollar for dollar, and yielding a profit, in that one item alone—discovering forest fires before they get beyond control.

Quail

QUAIL are more plentiful than for years, says the Department of Agriculture. All the way from South Carolina to Kansas, Bob White is abundant. This is good news, for those who like quail on toast and live in states with open seasons. What a pity, then, that the brutal hunting instinct still survives in man. If we stopped killing birds for two decades, America would be a paradise of bird songs now rarely heard. Hunting is the desire to get something for nothing.

Betting

LLOYD'S, insurance company of London, offers 19 to 1 against war between Japan and United States on or before Dec. 31, 1922. That tells you more truth about our relations with Japan than you will find in 100,000 diplomatic notes or speeches by international politicians.

Moon

THE moon is not running on schedule, according to astronomers' observations. It was 12 miles ahead of the time-table, at the recent eclipse. This does not check up exactly with what the moon should be doing under Newton's law of gravitation. Einstein probably can explain it. One thing, however, stumps Einstein and all other master brains: What is the great source of power that keeps sun, moon, planets and stars rolling round thru space forever? Where does the power come from? All these problems lead back to the certainty of a Supreme Intelligence.

VOTERS! YOU HAVE A DUTY

LIMA now is standing at the cross roads. The voters of this city will determine November 8, whether this great little city takes the road leading to greater things, or whether it follows the path leading to repetitions of past mistakes and political connivance.

The city's first commission will be chosen at the polls one week from tomorrow. This commission will have absolute control of the city's affairs for the next four years. It will have not merely legislative authority, but executive power as well, thru the manager it selects and whose acts are controlled wholly by the commission.

The commission-manager form of government may be ideal; it may approach the perfection which has been hoped for with the proper men at the helm. On the other hand it may be as great, if not a greater failure than the federal system. All depends upon the voters.

Politics should play no part in the coming election. Men should be chosen because of their ability to administer the affairs of this great corporation in a business-like manner—in the same manner in which a private concern would demand its affairs be handled.

Ten men will be presented to the voters from whom five will

FOR CITY COMMISSIONERS

Col. John A. Harley Minor C. Crossley
H. L. Breckenridge Harold Cunningham
J. J. Rankin

JUST DOPE ON HALLOWE'EN

Hallowe'en goes only once a year.

It was originated about the time Hecate was a pup. This was three years before the chicken crossed the road and seven years before Ann was old.

Tonight the kids will get their ears clean bobbing for apples.

The witches will witch and the goblins will gob.

Boys will be boys and so will lots of men.

Sheets will be used for something besides tablecloths and sleeping purposes.

Some ghosts will walk but most of them will run.

Gates and porch furniture that want to make a change will realize their ambition.

But there will be more steady gait than usual.

Quite a few real spooks will be seen by those who eat too much pumpkin pie.

People will have their fortunes told tonight. Tomorrow they will have their misfortunes told.

Tomorrow is the first of the month and bills are not the only funny sights you'll see.

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

But, as the goblin said to the little boy, "Better be good, or the policeman will get you if you don't watch out."

BUSINESS JUMPS TO HIGH MARK

St. Louis Concerns Report Largest Volume in History

MANUFACTURERS RUSHED

Stores Have Big Trade and Collections Good

(By RICHARD SPILLANE)

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 31.—Festus J. Wade, president of the Mercantile Trust Company, says the largest three wholesale dry goods companies in St. Louis are doing the biggest business in volume of goods in their history and that the largest four retail department stores likewise are doing the largest volume of business in their history. Buying was curtailed in the early part of the year, he adds, owing to the low price of cotton but when the south's great staple crop went to 20 cents a pound there developed a brisk business in every line of endeavor here.

Joseph R. Barrioli, who manages the business of Butler Brothers, in a territory covering seven or more states, and handling 30,000 items of goods carried by general stores, says his sales for the last few weeks show a 12 to 15 per cent better business than the same period last year.

President Rand, of the International Shoe Company, says his company is behind in filling orders which it is manufacturing 60 per cent more shoes than ever before. Last year its shipments amounted to $3,000,000. This year it will show $5,000,000 increase in dollars. He ascribes the great demand for the St. Louis made shoe to the fact that it is of standard character and has been brought down to within 42 per cent of 1914 prices, while sections of the country making shoes of other styles have been unable to reduce overhead charges and have been left heavily overstocked.

Collections began to improve in the south before the advance in cotton and there has been no particular trouble in the northwest. Other big shoe manufacturers here report the largest production and sales they ever have had, with collections good and everything satisfactory.

Paul Brown, editor of America at Work, called attention to the fact that time and saving deposits were 7 per cent greater than in September last year.

All the foregoing would indicate that St. Louis is in pretty good shape.

From the municipal wharf in St. Louis "trains" of barges are going down the river regularly with freight. There are 45 of these steel barges in service. Forty of them have 2,000 ton freight capacity. Some bigger ones are being built. It takes 7 days for freight to go by water from St. Louis to New Orleans. By rail the average is six days. The return trip is much longer for the barge. But the freight rate for barge is 20 per cent less than by rail.

It may take a long time to develop a big freight traffic on the Mississippi, but it looks as if a good start has been made. There is plenty of traffic for railroads and river and St. Louis needs both arteries, for in addition to the wheat and the coal and the other great bulk commodities that pour thru its gates on way to market, it has a production of goods that goes the world over and the variety of these products is remarkable. (Copyright, 1921, by Public Ledger Service.)

DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE TWINS

AT LEFT CHARLES EVANS HUGHES; AT RIGHT, VITTORIO ROLAND RICCI

WASHINGTON—(By NEA Service)—Introducing the disarmament conference twins.

One is Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes, America's leading representative at the pacific meeting that will start here on Nov. 12. The other Vittorio Rioland Ricci, Italian ambassador to the United States and Italy's spokesman at the conference.

They look alike. They think alike. They have even arrived at fame by the same route. And they are almost of the same age. Ricci is 61. Hughes is 58.

The only way to tell them apart is make them take off their hats.

Then, it will be noted, Hughes is slightly baldier than Ricci, and the American combs his hair back, while the Italian has a natural curly pompadour.

Otherwise, if they walked down the street together, they would have to carry placards explaining who was who. For there is the same beard, the same mustache, the same nose, the same eyes, the same forehead, the same smile.

And if one were asked a question on commercial law and jurisprudence, the other could answer it with equal confidence and authority. For both are experts in this field.

Then, it will be noted, Hughes is slightly baldier than Ricci, and the American combs his hair back, while the Italian has a natural curly pompadour.

Otherwise, if they walked down the street together, they would have to carry placards explaining who was who. For there is the same beard, the same mustache, the same nose, the same eyes, the same forehead, the same smile.

And if one were asked a question on commercial law and jurisprudence, the other could answer it with equal confidence and authority. For both are experts in this field.

Then, it will be noted, Hughes is slightly baldier than Ricci, and the American combs his hair back, while the Italian has a natural curly pompadour.

Otherwise, if they walked down the street together, they would have to carry placards explaining who was who. For there is the same beard, the same mustache, the same nose, the same eyes, the same forehead, the same smile.

And if one were asked a question on commercial law and jurisprudence, the other could answer it with equal confidence and authority. For both are experts in this field.

Then, it will be noted, Hughes is slightly baldier than Ricci, and the American combs his hair back, while the Italian has a natural curly pompadour.

Otherwise, if they walked down the street together, they would have to carry placards explaining who was who. For there is the same beard, the same mustache, the same nose, the same eyes, the same forehead, the same smile.

And if one were asked a question on commercial law and jurisprudence, the other could answer it with equal confidence and authority. For both are experts in this field.

Then, it will be noted, Hughes is slightly baldier than Ricci, and the American combs his hair back, while the Italian has a natural curly pompadour.

Otherwise, if they walked down the street together, they would have to carry placards explaining who was who. For there is the same beard, the same mustache, the same nose, the same eyes, the same forehead, the same smile.

And if one were asked a question on commercial law and jurisprudence, the other could answer it with equal confidence and authority. For both are experts in this field.

Then, it will be noted, Hughes is slightly baldier than Ricci, and the American combs his hair back, while the Italian has a natural curly pompadour.

Otherwise, if they walked down the street together, they would have to carry placards explaining who was who. For there is the same beard, the same mustache, the same nose, the same eyes, the same forehead, the same smile.

And if one were asked a question on commercial law and jurisprudence, the other could answer it with equal confidence and authority. For both are experts in this field.

Then, it will be noted, Hughes is slightly baldier than Ricci, and the American combs his hair back, while the Italian has a natural curly pompadour.

Otherwise, if they walked down the street together, they would have to carry placards explaining who was who. For there is the same beard, the same mustache, the same nose, the same eyes, the same forehead, the same smile.

And if one were asked a question on commercial law and jurisprudence, the other could answer it with equal confidence and authority. For both are experts in this field.

Then, it will be noted, Hughes is slightly baldier than Ricci, and the American combs his hair back, while the Italian has a natural curly pompadour.

Otherwise, if they walked down the street together, they would have to carry placards explaining who was who. For there is the same beard, the same mustache, the same nose, the same eyes, the same forehead, the same smile.

And if one were asked a question on commercial law and jurisprudence, the other could answer it with equal confidence and authority. For both are experts in this field.

Then, it will be noted, Hughes is slightly baldier than Ricci, and the American combs his hair back, while the Italian has a natural curly pompadour.

Otherwise, if they walked down the street together, they would have to carry placards explaining who was who. For there is the same beard, the same mustache, the same nose, the same eyes, the same forehead, the same smile.

And if one were asked a question on commercial law and jurisprudence, the other could answer it with equal confidence and authority. For both are experts in this field.

Then, it will be noted, Hughes is slightly baldier than Ricci, and the American combs his hair back, while the Italian has a natural curly pompadour.

Otherwise, if they walked down the street together, they would have to carry placards explaining who was who. For there is the same beard, the same mustache, the same nose, the same eyes, the same forehead, the same smile.

And if one were asked a question on commercial law and jurisprudence, the other could answer it with equal confidence and authority. For both are experts in this field.

Then, it will be noted, Hughes is slightly baldier than Ricci, and the American combs his hair back, while the Italian has a natural curly pompadour.

Otherwise, if they walked down the street together, they would have to carry placards explaining who was who. For there is the same beard, the same mustache, the same nose, the same eyes, the same forehead, the same smile.

And if one were asked a question on commercial law and jurisprudence, the other could answer it with equal confidence and authority. For both are experts in this field.

WORLD'S ARMY CHIEFTAINS AT U. S. VET MEET

Famous Warriors of Britain, France, Italy and Belgium are in Attendance at Kansas City Convention—Prominent Speakers Billed for Addresses

Vice-President Coolidge Pledges Harding to Relief of the Incapacitated Former Service Men—Unemployment Situation Is Taken Up

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—(By Associated Press)—Messages of greeting from veterans of the other allied armies, brought by famous leaders of the European fighting men, were outstanding incidents on the three-day program of the American Legion convention opening today.

General Armando Diaz, of the Italian armies; General Barol Jacques, of Belgium, and Vice-President Coolidge, who is representing President Harding, were speakers and speakers here today.

Admiral Earl Beatty of the British grand fleet, was expected to arrive during the late forenoon and this evening comes Marshal Foch, of France, commander-in-chief of the allied armies, and General John J. Pershing, of the American expeditionary forces, noting as Marshal Foch's aide.

The proceedings began with songs by Madame Schumann-Heink, whose voice cheered American boys far from home during the darker days of the war.

Then John M. Emery of Grand Rapids, Mich., national commander of the legion, called the convention to order and the invocation was pronounced by the Rev. John W. Rinser, of Chattanooga, Tenn., national chaplain. Addresses of welcome were made on behalf of Kansas City and responses given by legion officials, after which committee reports were received.

A memorial service for the late F. W. Galbraith of Cincinnati, who was killed in a motor car accident last June, was the noon feature of the convention, while at the afternoon session General Diaz, and General Jacques were to address the veterans.

JORLESS SITUATION
Mayor General John A. Lejeune of the United States Marine Corps, was another afternoon speaker and this evening Admiral Earl Beatty will speak. Efforts made by the American Legion to combat the unemployment situation as it affects the former service men and the suggestion of remedies for the problem were set forth at length in the annual report of Adjutant Lemuel Bolles to the convention.

Mr. Bolles suggested stimulation of public works, a more rigorous exclusion of aliens and a systematic effort on the part of local posts and departments to find work for the 900,000 former soldiers said by the report to be jobless.

HARDING AID PLANNED
Nothing is closer to the heart of President Harding than to make the relief for incapacitated war veterans absolutely complete; no man not in the service has deeper appreciation of what that service meant, of the obligations incurred by the country and no man will go further to minister to the true welfare of those who have been in the service and their dependents than the president of the United States. Vice-President Coolidge told the convention.

"He will never sacrifice you for his own welfare. He will sacrifice himself for your welfare. He will do all that can be done to prevent the need of your again sacrificing yourselves for your country's welfare," Mr. Coolidge said.

The vice-president reviewed what had been done so far toward relieving the incapacitated veterans; paid high tribute to the valor of America's armed forces and declared the legion represented a "new national consciousness."

He said every relief must be sought and applied to the taxation situation, sketched the country's financial obligations and added that he knew of no present service that could be performed or those who served the nation more important than to reduce "the great drain upon the resources of the people." Such a reduction, he said, would bring a return to permanent prosperity.

"He will never sacrifice you for his own welfare. He will sacrifice himself for your welfare. He will do all that can be done to prevent the need of your again sacrificing yourselves for your country's welfare," Mr. Coolidge said.

The vice-president reviewed what had been done so far toward relieving the incapacitated veterans; paid high tribute to the valor of America's armed forces and declared the legion represented a "new national consciousness."

He said every relief must be sought and applied to the taxation situation, sketched the country's financial obligations and added that he knew of no present service that could be performed or those who served the nation more important than to reduce "the great drain upon the resources of the people." Such a reduction, he said, would bring a return to permanent prosperity.

GROCERY LOOTED BY THIEVES

Quarter Ton of Food Taken From Plummer Store

Groceries and provisions, valued at $100, were stolen from Plummer's market in 309 S. Pl. st., between the hours of 9 p. m. Saturday and daylight Sunday. The thieves' operations were favored by an all night rain. Money in the cash drawer was not touched.

Almost a quarter ton of food was stolen, but it could not be determined whether a truck was used to carry the food away or not, as the rain obliterated the tracks.

Sam Plummer, proprietor of the grocery purchased the place from the Middlebatter Grocery company two weeks ago. He said he was unable to tell the exact quantity of goods stolen. Saturday receipts had been taken in his residence, 238 S. Fifth, when the store was closed.

He estimated the articles stolen, however, as follows:
Coffee, 25 pounds; sugar 100 pounds; flour 75 pounds; several cases of canned goods; fifteen pounds of meat, consisting of ham, bologna and sausage; half a drum of green cheese; three boxes of candy and considerable chewing and smoking tobacco. The cash drawer containing $2 was not touched.

Entrance was effected by removing a window in the warehouse in the rear. A hole was cut thru the door leading to the store. One of the robbers thrust his hand thru and pulled the bolt.

A trail of sugar and tobacco, leading from the store to the open window in the warehouse, showed Plummer what had occurred when he opened the store early Sunday.

He telephoned police. Officers found a pane of glass on the Elm street bridge, which leads to the belief that the thieves fled northward over the river.

Both Plummer and the police are of the opinion the robbery is the work of persons who need the food because of unemployment.

CHINESE ARRIVE

Delegation to Arms Conference Greeted at Washington

WASHINGTON—(By Associated Press)—With the formal opening of the International Conference on Limitation of Armaments, less than a fortnight away, preliminary preparation for the meeting swung into the final stages today.

The American delegation was scheduled to hold another of its discursive sessions at the state department and there were indications that the technical advisers would be ready with practically complete reports bearing on the general subjects embraced in the conference agenda.

Secretary Hughes, chairman of the American group, has expressed gratification over the progress made.

Advance groups of two foreign delegations already are here, the advisory delegation from China having arrived last night.

PORTUGAL, TOO, HAS ITS OWN PACIFIC PROBLEM

WASHINGTON—(By NEA Service)—The "Pacific interests" which Portugal will jealously guard at the disarmament conference are one and one-half miles long and one mile wide.

Macao, a Portuguese possession since 1557, is a peninsula jutting out from the island of Hang Shang on the Chinese coast. It has a population of 78,627—74,568 Chinese, 3,898 Portuguese and 161 others gathered from all quarters of the globe. Originally Macao was the most important trading port in the eastern Pacific. But when England opened up Hong Kong, Macao's importance dwindled. Today it's an Asiatic Monte Carlo.

Dwellers of the hot cities on the Chinese coast come there in summer both because of the sea breezes and a special kind of booze Macao manufactures. Gamblers, swindlers and thugs from every part of the Orient maintain their headquarters in Macao. For a long time the Portuguese government paid the Chinese government $350 a year for a lease on Macao. Then Portugal decided that was excessive and the rent collectors haven't been able to get a penny since 1843. In the first half of the last century Macao's chief industry was exporting Chinese coolies who were sold into virtual slavery. Then the Portuguese government put a stop to that and today the chief industry is smuggling.

"Y. W." CAMPAIGN IS UNDER WAY

Fund Drive Gets Away to a Flying Start

FIRST DAY PLANS OUTLINED

$15,000 Is Goal Set For Finance Week

She was 18 and pretty. She was a stranger in Lima. A stranger, a man directed her to an unsavory rooming house. Before morning she was compelled to barricade her door. She went in tears to the Y. W. C. A. the following morning and told her story. She was given protected shelter and the counsel of friends.

The Lima Y. W. C. A. Finance Week drive for $15,000, necessary to maintain the institution for the next year, got away to a flying start Monday morning, with the naming of campaign teams.

A routine get-together meeting will be held in the Y. W. C. A. at 6 o'clock tonight, when all team captains will receive subscription list cards and final instructions from Mrs. Emily Hadley, district field worker sent from New York to conduct the campaign here. Dinner will be served the workers preceding the business meeting.

Rev. Kirk O'Farrell will captain a team of men, it was announced Monday, his workers being the only men's team in the campaign.

"There will positively be no prizes offered or given as rewards for the winning team in this campaign," said Mrs. Hadley, Monday. "Reports to the contrary Sunday are emphatically denied. Such a thing would be untoward and unusual in a drive of this kind," she added.

Both Mrs. Hadley and Rev. O'Farrell will address the workers at the meeting tonight.

Unique display window decorations will help keep the purpose of the campaign before the people throughout the week, it being determined to show in reality some of the benefits young girls away from home receive thru the offices of the Y. W. C. A.

A model living room will be portrayed in the windows of the Harman Furniture store. Hoover & Roust will show a model dining room and the G. E. Blum Dry Goods store will entertain a window filled with living models of Y. W. C. A. girls, attired to illustrate clean, healthful advantages and clean habits of girl members of the organization.

That the Finance Week campaign for funds needed to maintain the Lima Y. W. C. A. for another year will be secured before the end of the week was believed by leaders Monday.

All teams will be in their respective districts early Tuesday morning.

"HIP LIQUOR" IS BEING SOLD

Police Court Cases Indicate Increase in Traffic

The sale of "hip liquor" seems to be on the increase in Lima, if the stories told in criminal court by five men arrested for intoxication, are true.

One and all, the quintette claim they purchased the foundation for their spree from a mysterious stranger on the street Wayne-st. from Main-st. to Central-st. seems to be the field of operation.

Judge Jackson questioned the men closely as to the identity of the man, but none of his customers would talk. Fines of $15 each were imposed by the court.

The men gave their names as Abe Watkins, E. Scott-st., Frank Camer, 229 E. Park-st.; Frank Navarro, Sandusky; James Miner, Bradford, Pa.; and Vasil Zaco, Lima, Lima.

Frank Shea, 26, of 544 N. McDonald-st., was equipped with five bottles of Jamaica ginger, when arrested at Main and Wayne-sts. Sunday, officers say and failed to appear in court. Bond of $1 was forfeited.

DEATH SUMMONS COMES FOR MRS. BERT MORRIS

Mrs. Ella Morris, 50, wife of Bert Morris, 213 N. West-st., died at city hospital Sunday, at 5:45 p. m., following an operation for tumor. She had been ill for a year.

Mrs. Morris was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Brennenman and was born in American-tp, west of Elida. Besides the husband, she is survived by three sons and one daughter. Children are Walter N. Morris, James H. Morris, Clarence T. Morris and Mr. Clara Bell Morris, all residing at the parental home.

Her mother and two brothers, Irvin and Stephen Brennenman, all of Elida, also survive. Mrs. Morris was a member of Elizabeth Turner tent, Daughters of Veterans, a member of Trinity church and of the Rebekah lodge, Lima.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 10 a. m. at Trinity church. The Rev. Walter D. Cole, pastor, will officiate. Interment will be at Greenlawn cemetery, near Elida.

FUNERAL RITES TUESDAY FOR MRS. F. B. HAWKINS

Mrs. Mary Virginia Hawkins, 27, wife of Forest B. Hawkins, 1151 Arch-ave, died at her home Sunday, after an illness from a complication of diseases. Besides the husband, she is survived by a son, Forest J. Hawkins, Jr., three step-daughters, Mildred, Helen and Olive Hawkins, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Harber, Pennington Gap, Va., and a sister and five brothers.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 10 a. m. at the residence. The Rev. H. F. Duder will officiate. Interment will be at Pennington Gap, Va.

Florida Oranges at Dorsey's.

MORE RAIN, BUT COLD IS DELAYED

THE weatherman has been mighty good to humanity in this region during the fall, affording ample opportunity for the garnering of all frost-proof products of garden and field and orchard, before really cold conditions obtain.

It was generally anticipated that ere November 1 fine weather conditions would be dispelled, but so far as mild temperature is concerned, it still persists.

Cabbages, turnips, parsnips, late radishes, carrots and a few other things that provide winter provender are still "to the good," awaiting the final clean-up Saturday and Sunday night. Jupiter Pluvius was given a free land and conditions were threatening a part of the way on Sunday and Monday.

Despite the fact that the forecast promises more rain tonight and Tuesday, he maintains that there will not be much change in temperature.

PLANS FOR MARDI GRAS COMPLETE

Celebration Tonight for Halloween and New Lights

Mayor F. A. Burkhardt completed plans Monday for the Mardi Gras which will be held in the downtown section of Lima tonight, in celebration of Halloween and the completion of the new boulevard lighting system.

Practically the entire police force will be on duty throughout the evening. Ten extra men will be on the job. Lima will be amply protected, the mayor announced.

Plans were announced Sunday for roping off sections of downtown streets, closing them to traffic so that celebrators may have free reign. The boulevard lights were tested on the day circuit Sunday and work satisfactorily, it was said Monday. They will be in readiness tonight.

Most dance halls in the city will put on special Halloween programs, and private masquerade balls are scheduled for many homes. Early in the evening Lima celebrators will turn out en masse for the Mardi Gras according to the mayor's plans.

Police have issued warning that property must not be destroyed. No vandalism will be tolerated. Celebrations will not be disturbed if they confine themselves to harmless pleasure, head of city departments declared Monday.

GEN. DIAZ IN LIMA

Hero of Piave En Route to Kansas City

A delegation of Chinese statesmen and army men and their aides passed thru this city Sunday, over the Penna Lines, en route from Chicago to Washington, aboard a special train.

General Diaz, hero of the Piave in the recent war, who lately was hard pressed by the Austrian and German armies and who is here to attend the arms limitation meet in Washington, was a visitor in Lima for a few minutes Saturday, aboard a Penna train en route to Kansas City, to attend the national American Legion convention.

General Pershing and General Foch, the latter the supreme leader of all the allied armies in the late war, were expected to pass thru Lima, en route to the Kansas City convention, but instead were routed over the Panhandle Line, it was announced.

MOVING DAY AT OFFICE OF MERCHANTS' BODY

"Twas moving day for the Lima Merchants' association secretary's office Monday. C. S. Burns was busy engaged in clearing away a multitude of pigeonholes, papers, documents that are now worthless, pocketing his several French briars of unknown age and in otherwise making ready for the return of James E. Norton, who will again assume the duties of secretary of the association Tuesday morning.

Some few changes were in progress also in J. Kennard Johnson's office in the chamber of commerce. As Burns leaves the merchant's association he will stop into the chamber of commerce offices as assistant to Manager Johnson.

They're off on Tuesday morning.

CIVIC NEEDS POINTED OUT TO LIMA ROTARIANS

Dr. E. L. Robertson, of Ashland, was a speaker of the day at the luncheon of the Lima Rotary club, at the Hotel Norial, Monday. He dwelt upon the public positions of any city and enumerated among such the police force, public officers, churches, streets and parks, pointing out that citizens should give more attention to these and co-operate with public officials on the enforcement of the law and the improvement of public property. There was also a musical number of club talent. No other entertainment was introduced.

ALL CLUB DINNER AT Y. W. C. A., WEDNESDAY

An all club dinner will be held at the Y. W. C. A. Wednesday at 6 p. m. Mrs. Emily Hadley, national worker from New York headquarters, will speak. Miss Gladys Howland will give a talk on "Our Purpose." A 15 minute recreation period will be conducted by Miss Mary Garford, physical director, after which the individual club will adjourn to the new rooms at the Garford club. All who are planning to attend are asked to register before 6 p. m. Tuesday.

Sweet Apples at Dorsey's.

A NEW STORY

ONE of the best known writers of the day, Max Kallert, contributes his new "False Witnesses" as the next serial to appear in The Lima News.

"False Witnesses" is an intriguing story with a strong love theme and a bit of mystery to give it color. Its hero, William Delmar, is a young chemist who, after years of research, discovers a formula which will make him wealthy. The very first chapter is replete with suspense, and once you start it, you'll not miss a single chapter.

Begin this great story in Tuesday's issue of The News. Follow it up daily. It's one of the finest serial offerings of the year.

EMERY DECLARES VETS WILL WIN

Legion Chief Speaks on Bonus at Convention Opening

KANSAS CITY Mo. — (By Associated Press) — The issue of national adjusted compensation for the ex-service men has not been at all settled, John P. Emery, national commander of the American Legion, declared here today in his address opening the third annual convention of the Legion.

"Such means as were used last summer to beat adjusted compensation cannot ultimately succeed," Commander Emery told the Legion. "Nothing is settled until it is settled right."

"The American people are the court of last resort and wherever the American people have by the ballot passed judgment on the matter of adjusted compensation that judgment has been an endorsement of the Legion's stand."

"I cannot conceive of a Congress so derelict in its duty, so unmindful of its just obligation to those who served their country at great financial loss, or so blind to the wishes of our people as to be misled again into refusing to adjust the economic balance between the man who went to war and the man who did not."

LEGION GROWS

Commander Emery reported that "in face of adverse industrial conditions, which have hit the ex-service man hard, the American Legion has gained in strength and its financial position has steadily improved."

He suggested that the political clause in the Legion's constitution, which "will not permit any one who holds or is seeking salaried elective public office to hold office in the Legion, or in any department or post thereof," be extended to include appointive offices.

VETERANS BUREAU

The greatest Legion achievement of the year, Commander Emery said, was won for the disabled service men, its vigorous efforts resulting in creation of the Veterans' Bureau.

"The last national work undertaken by the legion has been for the relief of comrades who are unemployed," Commander Emery continued. "It is a duty of the legion to extend every aid to these comrades and a duty which I know the legion will not fail to perform," he said.

BOILING PITCH SETS FIRE TO RESIDENCE

A cauldron of boiling pitch set fire to the residence of J. P. Bowman, 235 N. Jamison-av at noon Monday when the hot fluid boiled over and was ignited by a gas plate.

The fire, used in repairing the roof, was being heated on the rear porch of the house. The floor was ignited in several places. Workmen extinguished the blaze.

Fire company No. 4 was called.

SOCIAL SERVICE WORK OUTLINED TO MINISTERS

Mrs. Irene Mills Jackson, head of the Social Service bureau, was the principal speaker at a meeting of over 20 Lima ministers of the Y. M. C. A. Monday morning.

Mrs. Jackson spoke in detail of the relief work being done in Lima by her organization, of vocational training courses secured for disabled ex-service men and of other matters of import to her listeners.

RICHTER AND MILLER TRIALS ARE POSTPONED

Preliminary hearing in the case of John Richter, 531 Hazel-av, arrested by the police October 22, when a large sum was discovered in his cellar, was postponed until November 11, on motion of counsel Monday.

Richter's hearing was originally set for November 1, by Judge Finnitt J. Jackson.

Attorney for the accused appeared in criminal court Monday and asked a continuance which was allowed.

Trial of Tony Miller, saloonist, charged with possession of intoxicants, has also been set back indefinitely.

POLICE SEEK OWNER OF GIRL'S BICYCLE

Police are endeavoring to locate the owner of a red bicycle which was found by Motorcop Dick Watkins in S. Union-st, several weeks ago.

The name plate is missing. The wheel is built for a girl eight or nine years of age. The owner can recover the property by calling at the police station.

ADMINISTRATOR NAMED FOR KREILING ESTATE

Freud Bergen, 418 McPherson-ave, was appointed administrator of the estate of Worthy Edwin Kreiling, who died October 25. The estate amounts to $2,300, of which $1,300 is real estate. Two daughters share.

J. H. Neubrecht, D. H. Tolan and Val. Heil were named appraisers of the property.

Select Bulk Oysters at Dorsey's.

Boiled Cider at Dorsey's.

To Cure a cold in one day. Take Laxative BROMO QUININE tablets. The genuine bears the signature of Dr. J. C. Groves. (Be sure you get BROMO.) 50c.-Adv.

NAMING OF UPTON IS OPPOSED

Senator Pomerene to Fight Choice of President

TERMED "PREPOSTEROUS"

Federal Trade Commission Selection Arouses Storm

THE LIMA NEWS BUREAU Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — (Special) — An attempt to undermine the influence and authority of the Federal Trade Commission as an agency to regulate commerce in the interests of competition, was laid at the door of the administration in an interview given out here Monday by Senator Pomerene of Ohio.

Senator Pomerene's statement was provoked by an inquiry as to his attitude on the nomination of Attorney George Upton, of Warren, recently named a member of the Trade Commission by President Harding, in the light of Senator Pomerene's statement and assurances he has given Ohio members of the House, it is certain that the Ohio Senator will make a bitter fight against confirmation of the Upton nomination, now pending before the Senate.

"I do not desire to discuss the Upton appointment for publication," Senator Pomerene said, "except to state that I shall not favor confirmation of the appointment in the Senate."

"The Federal Trade Commission is one of the most important agencies of the federal government. It is enjoined with the duty of regulating commerce in the interests of competition. It is supposed to investigate unfair practices in business and industry and to call them to the attention of Congress."

"I know that the Commission has been criticized and its purposes belittled by those who have suffered from its activities, but the fact remains that it has been doing everything that has been done to prevent the growth of monopoly and to give the public protection from unfair and illegal practices in business and industry."

TERMED PREPOSTEROUS

"It seems preposterous to me to consider the confirmation of any man nominated for membership on this commission who is not equipped in every respect to cope with the enormous problems which are continually before the Commission for consideration. If the administration makes purely political appointments in selecting members of this body it will undermine its influence and authority and render it impotent to give further service to the public."

Senator Pomerene has been quoted by Ohio members of the House, also opposed to the appointment of Attorney Upton, that he will "fight the nomination to a finish" in the Senate.

The Warren attorney was named by President Harding about three weeks ago. It was generally conceded in Washington at the time that the appointment was made because of the desire of the President to reward Mrs. Harry Taylor Upton, of Warren, wife of the appointee, who has been in Washington doing organization work among women for the Republican National Committee and who has herself refused several important offices. Upton has been a patent lawyer, but has not been actively engaged in the practice of the law for some years. If his appointment is confirmed by the Senate he will draw a salary of $10,000 a year, for a term of six years.

GUILD TO MEET

Members of St. Rita's Guild will meet at the hospital Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. to make preparations for tag day Saturday. All members requested to be present.

Fancy Western Jonathan and Roman Beauty Apples $2.90 box at Dorsey's.

LODGE NOTICES

An important meeting of Lima Council, Knights of Columbus, will be held Tuesday night. Entertainment of a special character will be afforded.

Stated assembly of Lima Council No. 20, R. & M. Tuesday evening. Annual election of officers. All officers and members requested to be present. Visiting companions welcome. Cigars. Wallace Landis, secretary; E. F. Swigert, Thr. III Master.

Special communication of Lima Lodge No. 205, F. & A. M. Monday at 7:30 p. m. Work on Master Mason degree. Visiting brethren welcome. Wallace Landis, secretary; C. S. Lathrop, W. M.

Stella Rebekah lodge will hold a called meeting Tuesday at 2 p. m. in Solar Hall to make arrangements for the funeral services of the late Mrs. Ella Morris. All members are requested to be present.

AMBULANCE REMOVALS

Long and Bowersock — Mrs. Elmina Brentlinger, 209 W. Elm-st to City hospital.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children In Use For Over 30 Years Always bears the Signature of Chas. H. Littleton

BARGAINS

NEW AND USED TALKING MACHINES —TERMS TO SUIT— PORTER'S S. MAIN ST.

GLOVERVILLE PICTURE MAY BE SHOWN IN LIMA

Word was received by J. Kennard Johnson Monday that a motion picture depicting the glove industry in Gloverville, N. Y., which he was instrumental in having made the chamber of commerce of that city, has been shown at one of the leading theatres in New York City, under direction of the United States Bureau of Commercial Economics in affiliation with the Department of Public Service and the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America.

The film was made as part of an industrial program being carried on by the government and the will be shown at some time in the near future.

BENTZ PLANS 8 MORE HOMES

Property Purchased in Ewing-av for That Purpose

A block of eight new homes, to cost approximately $40,000, will be erected on vacant property in Ewing-av, west of N. Main-st., it was announced by Frank H. Bentz, realtor, Monday.

The property was purchased by Bentz, Monday from George Walther, for a consideration announced at $8,500. The land was taken over with the intention of using it for location for residences.

The houses to be constructed will be of a substantial class equipped with modern conveniences. It is Bentz's intention to let the work to one contractor. The houses are to conform practically to one general plan, but will be built so as to present a different appearance on the exterior.

Each house will cost between $4,000 and $5,000. Construction of 13 houses in Scott-st and Green-av, was started by Bentz a week ago.

REBUILT FLIVVER IS NEW "PATROL WAGON"

Law violators who are arrested by the police will ride to the station in state-of-the-art automobiles sometimes as a new machine has been put in commission which will be used as a patrol car and to answer calls.

Motorcop Watkins evolved the "blue tax," it is stated, from a broken down flivver, checked at the station in lieu of a fine.

The rejuvenated flivver went into commission Monday. The department's motor equipment now consists of the motorcycle council would not allow to be sold, an Auburn six and the "new old" car.

MRS. MOKE IS ILL

Friends of Mrs. Frank Moke, of 1014 W. Market-st, will deeply regret to learn that she is confined to her home by illness.

Peggy Sweet says:-

I don't know what De Luxe means but I think it means

Kellogg's SHAWNEE

Chocolates

At stores where better candy is sold.

The Kellogg Sugar Products Co. LIMA - OHIO

ASHER GIVES LEASE TO PROPERTY IN SQU

E. A. Asher and others have leased to Andrew Valos and other three-story building and, known as No. 26 Public Square, property is located on lot 23, in original plat of Lima and is a term of three years and six months. The rental is to be $11 month.

LEASE TAKEN ON PART OF THE PHOENIX BL

The United Cigar Store company has leased to Gus Chappas and others part of the building in the east corner of Main and High. The term is for eight years and months. The annual rental is $600 until February, 1925, which time the rental becomes $500 a year.

Notice this delicious flavor when you smoke Lucky Strike —it's sealed in by the toasting process

Big Hits IN November Victor Records

Saturday OH JOY 18809 Piano

Say It with Music 18803 Fox Trot

Sweet Lady 18803 Fox Trot

PORTER'S

JOHNS OUT TUESDAY!

VICTOR RECORDS for November

RED SEAL RECORDS

6498 Mother of My Heart (Montgomery-Guy) Frances Alda
6499 Rode in G Flat Major, Op. 10, No. 8 (Black Keys) (b) Etude in G Flat
6500 Metastasis (Carducci-Fatou) Alfred Cortot
6501 Metastasis (Carducci-Fatou) Alfred Cortot
6502 Metastasis (Carducci-Fatou) Alfred Cortot
6503 Metastasis (Carducci-Fatou) Alfred Cortot
6504 Metastasis (Carducci-Fatou) Alfred Cortot
6505 Metastasis (Carducci-Fatou) Alfred Cortot
6506 Metastasis (Carducci-Fatou) Alfred Cortot
6507 Metastasis (Carducci-Fatou) Alfred Cortot
6508 Metastasis (Carducci-Fatou) Alfred Cortot
6509 Metastasis (Carducci-Fatou) Alfred Cortot
6510 Metastasis (Carducci-Fatou) Alfred Cortot
6511 Metastasis (Carducci-Fatou) Alfred Cortot
6512 Metastasis (Carducci-Fatou) Alfred Cortot
6513 Metastasis (Carducci-Fatou) Alfred Cortot
6514 Metastasis (Carducci-Fatou) Alfred Cortot
6515 Metastasis (Carducci-Fatou) Alfred Cortot
6516 Metastasis (Carducci-Fatou) Alfred Cortot
6517 Metastasis (Carducci-Fatou) Alfred Cortot
6518 Metastasis (Carducci-Fatou) Alfred Cortot
6519 Metastasis (Carducci-Fatou) Alfred Cortot
6520 Metastasis (Carducci-Fatou) Alfred Cortot

DANCE RECORDS

18796 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band
18797 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band
18798 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band
18799 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band
18800 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band
18801 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band
18802 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band
18803 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band
18804 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band
18805 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band
18806 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band
18807 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band
18808 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band
18809 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band
18810 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band
18811 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band
18812 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band
18813 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band
18814 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band
18815 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band
18816 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band
18817 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band
18818 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band
18819 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band
18820 Danzando Blues—Fox Trot Original Dixieland Jazz Band

POPULAR RECORDS

4325 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4326 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4327 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4328 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4329 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4330 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4331 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4332 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4333 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4334 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4335 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4336 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4337 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4338 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4339 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4340 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4341 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4342 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4343 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4344 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4345 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4346 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4347 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4348 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4349 The Old Road Ship of Dreams
4350 The Old Road Ship of Dreams

HEAR THESE NEW RECORDS TOMORROW

FREE DELIVERY—CALL MAIN 6200

JOHNS MUSIC CO.

134 West High St. "Look for the Big Dog on W. High St. Victrola Specialist"

GREATER COURAGE BEING DISPLAYED

Business Is Turning Its Face Forward With a Rush

RAILROADS ARE BETTER OFF

Copper and Steel Industries Are Showing Improvement

(BY B. C. FORBES)
NEW YORK—(Special)—The air is clearing. Business is turning its face forward, with at least a little greater courage. Activity is increasing moderately in several important directions.

Settlement of the threatened railroad strike has brought general relief, even tho' the terms satisfied neither the men's leaders nor the more aggressive executives who would have preferred a fight to a finish. The public, however, are pleased by the demonstration that no combination of workers can intimidate or defy the government.

We can now look for moderate ordering of equipment and materials by the railroads, especially as steel rails and other steel products are now regarded as probably having reached their low level for the time being.

September's railroad earnings show profits averaging within one per cent of the return prescribed by law, and while important cuts are being made in rates at different points, traffic should increase sufficiently to offset this. Railroad credit will probably strengthen and railway securities should recover appreciably.

Let us pick at random a few other significant developments. The Bethlehem Steel company announces that it is going ahead with extensions, confident that the country will by and by demand greater productive capacity.

Reports from the west state that larger copper properties are preparing to resume operations on a sizeable scale, following better inquiry for the metal at the somewhat better prices now ruling.

The New York stock exchange had a "million share day" last week and counts upon others.

The treasury has lowered the interest yield on treasury certificates; the Federal Reserve banks show a new high reserve ratio; money is becoming more plentiful, and business borrowers are now looked upon with greater favor by lenders.

The government's warship reports are distinctly favorable. From Germany comes the welcome and entirely unexpected news that the November 15 indemnity installment has been fully provided for, mainly thru goods and services furnished.

Sterling lately has risen to within a few cents of $4 to the pound. An official report on Mexico's oil resources has had a most stimulating effect in financial and stock market circles.

Unemployment figures are distinctly less pessimistic.

The most significant and encouraging development of all is a wholly intangible one. It is now the expectation rather than the rule for men of affairs to harbor pessimism regarding the outlook. "Experts" who give their noses to endless sheets of figures and imagine that they can read in them exactly what lies ahead are now waking up to the fact that the worst is over and that better conditions are developing.

Until very recently nothing but pessimism exuded from such sources. When statements were being made in this column that foundations were being laid for early improvement, the statistical pessimists and some others shook their heads and pitied such ignorance.

Let a few more conspicuous industrial leaders come forward with brass-tack statements such as that made by Schwab, and the pace of recovery would increase at a rate discomfiting to those who are still wrapped up wholly in the harrowing events of the past.

From now on more attention will be focused on Washington. The proceedings of the conference on armaments will doubtless have a marked influence on sentiment in the highest places and will also be followed with genuine interest by the public.

Business, however, is anxiously awaiting action by congress in several vital directions. As George Eastman, one of America's very largest employers, writes me: "A satisfactory settlement of the tax and tariff questions by congress would greatly accelerate a return to normal conditions." So far congress has dilly-dallied over both to the detriment of every household in the land.

The doings of the Interstate Commerce Commission, particularly in the matter of ordering railway rate reductions, will also be closely scrutinized.

Washington's handling of the vastly important and complicated inter-related debt problem is another matter exercising concern.

The present disposition is to have faith in the outlook as a whole. If concrete developments in industry, in commerce, in finance, in agriculture, in labor, continue encouraging between now and New Year, the country will be able to withstand any disappointment that may be inflicted by the mis-handling of one or two of the momentous matters now engaging attention at Washington—a contingency that it were well to be prepared for.

Unless all signs fail, the security markets should do better rather than worse.

(Copyright, 1921.)
NOTICE
The West Minister Rural School Board will receive bids for the transportation of the High School scholars to Lima High School on the evening of Wednesday, November 2nd. For information call S. L. Barnett, Harrod, O., or phone 4 on 4, West Minister over Lima, free service. Number to be transported about 9.

Fancy Ripe Vermont Potatoes at Dorsey's.

DEATH COMES TO WOMAN TWO MONTHS AFTER HER ARRIVAL FROM ENGLAND

Mrs. Harriet Richards, 74, mother of Thomas H. Richards, 116 N. Jackson-ave, died at the home of her son at 11:15 p. m. Saturday, after a week's illness from general debility.

Mrs. Richards was born in Yeovil, England, and came from that country two months ago to make her home here. Her son is connected with the Delsel store.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 3 p. m. at the residence of the son. Interment will be in Woodlawn.

ADMITS THEFT OF THOUSANDS

Wapakoneta Man Held at Bellefontaine for Forgery

WAPAKONETA—(Special)—Lloyd Maxson of this city, secretly indicted by the Logan-county grand jury for forgery, was arrested and taken to Bellefontaine for arraignment. He was employed by an auto dealer and is charged he would turn in forged notes when cash payment were made on machines, keeping the cash. It is claimed his speculations netted him $3,500. He entered a plea of guilty, but has not been sentenced.

Robert Roth, St. Marys, was sentenced to six months in the county jail for a statutory offense. Three months of the sentence was suspended.

Married: Charles Mergenthall, 40, Lima, and Marie Maxwell, 27, Wapakoneta.

At the expiration of a 30-day sentence in jail for stealing coal, county commissioners ordered the release of John Silke, on condition that he give bond to pay fine of $200 at $1 per week.

Alvirre E. Karch, Celina, was one of the three men sentenced to penitentiary for hold-up of Weber gambling house here in March. Now he is suing Weber for recovery of $1,800, which he claims he lost at the gaming table, together with $500 exemplary damages. A motion to secure costs in the case comes up for hearing Thursday.

As a result of exposure from sleeping in old wagon at the Henry Vossler farm, near here, John Helminger, 74, Pusheta-p, a rover and wandering horse trader, is at death's door at the Auglaize-county infirmary.

Helminger seems to be slightly off mentally and during the past several months wandered about, endeavoring to effect horse trades. His wife preceded him in death at the county home. He has several children, at different places in Ohio and Indiana, it is stated.

Body of Earl March, local soldier who lost his life in France during the late war, arrived in Hoboken. Burial at Sidney.

$800 DAMAGE BY FIRE AT E. D. PLAUGHER HOME

Fire originating from a gas stove in the kitchen, destroyed a portion of the interior of the home of E. D. Plaugher, 548 S. Elizabeth-st., at 5 p. m. Sunday and entailed damage estimated by the owner at $800. The home is amply protected by insurance, Plaugher said.

CAR FARES CUT
CINCINNATI—A one-half cent reduction in fares on the lines of the Cincinnati Traction Company will go into effect at midnight Monday. The fare for the next three months will be 7.1-2 cents per passenger and exactly one-half that rate for children under ten years of age.

TUESDAY AT BUEHNER BROS.
20 Public Square, Hamburg.
Steak from nice fresh beef, lb. 10c; fresh liver sliced, lb. 5c; fresh small hearts, lb. 7c.

Pears for canning at Dorsey's.

Cuticura Clears the Pores Of Impurities

Daily use of the Soap, with occasional touches of the Ointment as needed, cleanses and purifies the skin and keeps it free from pimples and blackheads.

Cuticura Talcum is ideal for powdering and perfuming.

Small bottles of Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere. Get the genuine Cuticura Soap and Ointment without mistake.

NOTICE
TALKING MACHINE SALE
CONTINUED

ANOTHER WEEK

A small payment will hold any instrument until Xmas.

PORTER'S

TRUCKS FLOODING WEST WITH RUM

Trains Used by Smugglers to Distribute Liquor

TIDES EVEN USED IN TRADE

San Francisco Boasts of Lack of Prohibition

(By NEA Service)
Liquor smuggling, moonshining and bootlegging are as rampant in the southwest and on the Pacific coast as in the east.

Investigation by the NEA Service revealed that scarcely any part of the country has real enforcement. Political influence, clogged courts, take-liquor withdrawal permits, rum-running, counterfeiting of labels and revenue stamps, and other evils are as prevalent in the west as in the east.

Texas and southern California are the centers of smuggling from Mexico. A flood comes in from Canada thru Seattle. San Francisco waterfront has a tremendous rum-running traffic.

Moonshining, originally peculiar to the south, has spread tremendously and Texas is a big center of the industry in the southwest.

Off the Florida coast gunny sacks filled with bottled liquor often are dumped in shallow water and retrieved later by "fishers" with grappling hooks.

The California method is even more extraordinary. Carefully watching the tides, the rum ships run as close to shore as possible, and dump their cargoes on the inside, which carries the liquor cases safely to the beach, where it is left high and dry when the tide goes out. Similar methods are used to land liquor on the Oregon and Washington coasts.

Enforcement staffs are so small that only one-half of one per cent of the Pacific coast can be policed.

OAST IS ZONED
BY RUM-RUNNERS
Pacific coast sections are practically zoned by organized traffickers.

Canada feeds Scotch whisky, English liquors and gin into the country.

Mexico produces high-proof stronger whiskies and its native product, tequila.

California makes its own wine and millions of gallons reach the bootleg market.

Enforcement has collapsed so much along the coast that Scotch, formerly sold at $30 a quart, can be had now for $15. In Mexico Scotch costs $15 to $20 a quart.

WHEN NERVES ARE UNSTRUNG

There are times when men and women cannot help losing strength. They try to do too much or they lose sleep or do not eat enough food that nourishes. Blood becomes sluggish because poisons clog it. Faces grow pale and pasty looking. It is not long before nerves get unstrung.

The best way to start a change for the better is to take a course of Gude's Pepto-Mangan. It builds the blood. The weakness from a lack of red cells in the blood is overcome. Gude's Pepto-Mangan sends a fresh supply of red cells streaming through the blood. Good blood, pure and free from poisons, starts building vigor and strength. Sleep is better, appetite keener, so that the body becomes properly nourished. Druggists have Gude's Pepto-Mangan in both liquid and tablet form. The name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" is on the package.

Adv.

HERRETT TIRE SERVICE CO.

222-4-6, S. ELIZABETH ST.
LIMA, OHIO.
The Home of Satisfied Users
PHONE MAIN 2035

TO THE
BRIDE AND GROOM

YOU ARE INVITED
TO OPEN AN ACCOUNT
AT THIS BANK

FOR CONVENIENCE IN SYSTEMIZING YOUR PERSONAL AND HOUSEHOLD EXPENSES

OUR CORDIAL WELCOME
AWAITS YOU

THE AMERICAN BANK
CORNER HIGH AND MAIN STREETS

American and Mexican liquor costs $8. Moonshine is cheaper. The coast is made in San Francisco that the city "never did have prohibition—and never will." Bars operate defiantly on main business streets. Liquor can be had easily in every other city.

Enforcement officers admit there is little reason why the discriminating need purchase moonshine or "doctored" alcohol—albeit the output of both is enormous—for it is so easy to obtain good liquor.

MEASURE CROPS IN
"GALLONS TO ACRE"

In East Texas, among the woods and hills, many farmers speak of their corn crop in terms of "gallons to the acre" rather than bushels.

Selling liquor over a bar or by the drink is rare in Texas cities. It is retailed in bottles or fruit jars by the pint, quart and gallon.

The biggest moonshining center in the southwest is Mount Pleasant, 100 miles east of Dallas. Thousands of gallons are made in this vicinity and distributed by automobile. This traffic has grown so great that the product is called "Mount Pleasant" and is as well known as brands of bonded whiskey.

WITH PROSECUTIONS
Courts are swamped with liquor cases in practically all states in the far west and south.

When U. S. Prosecutor McCormack took office at San Francisco he found 1200 untaxed liquor cases awaiting him. He also felt he had 200 informations against liquor law violators, and he has since made 200 more, arrests being made at the rate of 20 a week.

There is only one judge before whom these cases may be tried and in one month this judge could give only two weeks to liquor trials.

Texas records show few violators are given jail sentences.

AUTO TRAINS
CARRY LIQUOR

Auto trains, carrying rich cargoes, move daily over little used highways up and down the Pacific coast and the Mexican border. Distances are so great and the area to be covered so vast that enforcement officers are helpless. The Texas district comprises 135 counties—and there are 10 enforcement officers.

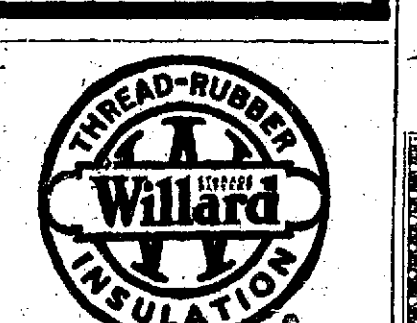

Moonshine whiskey—the colorless variety—is delivered in some cities in milk bottles by "dairymen."

In California enforcement officers have practically given up hunting for stills. They are searching mansions. In Los Angeles a raid on a house in the fashionable section netted $100,000 worth of liquor.

Texas has been the scene of a number of killings. Clashes between officers and smugglers are frequent.

(Copyright, 1921.)

MUSIC
NEW COLUMBIA
VALUE $225
SALE PRICE $170.00
—TERMS—
PORTER'S
248-145 S. MAIN ST.

The Lima Storage Battery Co.

220 W. ELM—CORNER WEST

PHONE—MAIN 4751

HERRETT TIRE SERVICE CO.

222-4-6, S. ELIZABETH ST.

LIMA, OHIO.

The Home of Satisfied Users
PHONE MAIN 2035

TO THE
BRIDE AND GROOM

YOU ARE INVITED
TO OPEN AN ACCOUNT
AT THIS BANK

FOR CONVENIENCE IN SYSTEMIZING YOUR
PERSONAL AND HOUSEHOLD EXPENSES

OUR CORDIAL WELCOME
AWAITS YOU

THE AMERICAN BANK
CORNER HIGH AND MAIN STREETS

COULD NOT LIFT UP HER HAND

Believes She is Happiest Woman in the World

"My heart is just overflowing with gratitude, and I believe I am the happiest woman living over the wonderful way Tanlac restored my health," said Mrs. Frances Brown, of Krumroy, Ohio.

"I never knew what it was for three years to eat a single meal without suffering terribly afterwards from indigestion. I had terrible pains too in my shoulders and chest, and my arms hurt me so bad I could hardly raise my hand above my head."

"I am enjoying the best of health now, never have an ache or a pain and for the first time in months am able to do my housework. Tanlac is the greatest medicine in the world."

"Tanalac is sold in Lima by Hunter's Drug Store and by leading druggists everywhere."—Adv.

One peck good Cooking Apples 50c at Dorsey's.

TWINS, GIRLS
Born to Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hutchison, (nee Lena Klotz) 665 N. Jackson-st, twin daughters. They weighed seven pounds at birth.

Try this easy way to heal your skin

A pure ointment that has brought joy to thousands tortured by skin disorders

RESINOL
Soothing and Healing

DORSEY'S

Special Order No. 6

25 lbs. Pure Cane Sugar . . . $.25
3 cans Best Peaches . . . 1.00
3 cans Best Apricots . . . 1.00
3 cans Best 20c Corn60
4 lbs. good new Prunes . . .50
3 cans Best 20c Peas60
2 lbs. Fancy Dried Peaches .60
4 cans Snyder's Pork and Beans50
3 rolls best Toilet Paper . .25
2 pkgs. new Rolled Oats . .25
3 lbs. Best Rice25
3 lbs. Shelled Pop Corn . .25
½ lb. Good Tea50

$6.55

DORSEY'S—DELIVERED

25 lbs. Pure Cane Sugar . . . $.25

3 cans Best Peaches . . . 1.00

3 cans Best Apricots . . . 1.00

3 cans Best 20c Corn60

4 lbs. good new Prunes . . .50

3 cans Best 20c Peas60

2 lbs. Fancy Dried Peaches .60

4 cans Snyder's Pork and Beans50

3 rolls best Toilet Paper . .25

2 pkgs. new Rolled Oats . .25

3 lbs. Best Rice25

3 lbs. Shelled Pop Corn . .25

½ lb. Good Tea50

$6.55

DORSEY'S—DELIVERED

25 lbs. Pure Cane Sugar . . . $.25

3 cans Best Peaches . . . 1.00

3 cans Best Apricots . . . 1.00

3 cans Best 20c Corn60

4 lbs. good new Prunes . . .50

3 cans Best 20c Peas60

2 lbs. Fancy Dried Peaches .60

4 cans Snyder's Pork and Beans50

3 rolls best Toilet Paper . .25

2 pkgs. new Rolled Oats . .25

3 lbs. Best Rice25

3 lbs. Shelled Pop Corn . .25

½ lb. Good Tea50

$6.55

DORSEY'S—DELIVERED

25 lbs. Pure Cane Sugar . . . $.25

3 cans Best Peaches . . . 1.00

3 cans Best Apricots . . . 1.00

3 cans Best 20c Corn60

4 lbs. good new Prunes . . .50

3 cans Best 20c Peas60

2 lbs. Fancy Dried Peaches .60

4 cans Snyder's Pork and Beans50

3 rolls best Toilet Paper . .25

2 pkgs. new Rolled Oats . .25

3 lbs. Best Rice25

3 lbs. Shelled Pop Corn . .25

½ lb. Good Tea50

$6.55

DORSEY'S—DELIVERED

KIWANISANS TO HOLD FATHER, SON BANQUET

Instead of the regular noon luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club this week the Kiwanians will . . .

The program is held secret, but prominent Kiwanians assert it will be one of many surprises for every member. Fathers whose "sons are dandies" will be out of luck, unless they can borrow a son for the occasion. It is announced.

The Y. M. C. A. has been engaged for the event this week.

AMBULANCE REMOVALS.

WILLIAMS AND DAVIS: Mrs. I. K. Hoebasack, 611 N. Union-st., to City hospital. Mrs. Charles Le Mang from the Chinese laundry, W. High-st. to City hospital.

BOY, ACCIDENTALLY SHOT, IS RECOVERING

Pearl Marlatt, 13, who was wounded in the right lung by a bullet from a rifle carried by his father, William Marlatt, 1503 Norval, Saturday, will recover, according to announcement from City hospital.

The condition of the child was reported favorable at that institution Monday.

The accident occurred on the farm of Frank Marlatt, living 20 miles from Lima, near Glynwood. Marlatt and his two sons had gone to the country to spend the day.

Best Michigan Potatoes $1.40 bu. $3.50 a bag at Dorsey's.

Catawba Grapes at Dorsey's.

E & R STORE
433 S. MAIN ST.

DAVID EPSTEIN EARL H. ROBERTS

Now Open for Business

We are not giving flowers or music but will save you money on your purchase because—

We are out of the high rent district.

We have no high priced managers to buy or pay.

Because we figure our money on quick turn over and small profit.

We have no expensive deliveries or office help.

We sell for cash only.

You are cordially invited to visit us. Open 7 a. m. to 5:30 p. m.

SPECIAL!

A Few More Cars Potatoes

2½ Bu. Bag Potatoes	2.25
1 Bu. Potatoes	1.30
1 Peck Potatoes33
7 lbs. Fancy Sweet Potatoes25
40 lb. Box Fancy Apples	2.75
24½ lb. Sack Pride of Lima Flour85
24½ lb. Sack Silver Star Flour85
1 Bbl. Pride Lima or Silver Star	6.75
1 Gal. Sweet Cider60

E. W. STUMPP
209 & 211 S. Union St. Phone Main 3826
Lima, Ohio

Carter & Carroll

Specials Extraordinary

Suits and Coats

Genuine All-Week Bargains from the Second Floor—See Them.

Women's New Fall Suits
In the Very Best Styles That Are Lower Than Ever Before

"The truth of the matter," we largely overbought on Women's Suits, consequently we are compelled to take great loss on all Women's Suits—this makes it your opportunity time to buy Women's Suits. We direct your attention to an all wool, fur trimmed, silk lined suit, navy, black and brown, full line of sizes no better style at any price, the tailoring is the best—it's really a worth-while bargain.

NEW LOW LEVEL PRICE
$19.75

Women's Suits at $39.00
That You Would Ordinarily Pay $60.00 to $75.00 for, Buy Now

Black, navy, brown and copen Suits for women in the height of style, copies from the best authentic Paris models, rich fur trimmings, beautiful silk embroidery. Best of expert tailoring, silk linings, made of velour De Laine, fine Tricotines, Suede Cloth. Remember nothing takes the place of a smart tailored suit. They are always good and now is the time to buy at a big saving.

The Lima News

AND TIMES-DEMOCRAT
E. R. LEACH, Editor.
Entered at Lima, O., as second class mail matter.
By mail when there is no Lima News carrier—one year, $2.00; six months $1.00; one month 50c.
MEMBER OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LIMA, MILITARILY

ASIDE from the fact that the disbanding of Troop E, cavalry, of this city, will place several of the officers on the inactive list, their pay to continue, the official order of Adjutant General George Florence will not materially affect Lima's importance in military circles, for it is announced that the men of the cavalry unit will be received in the artillery organization.

While it is true that a cavalry company is more useful on patriotic occasions than an artillery company ever could be, and while the cavalry could lend quicker and better aid in case of a riot or other crisis, it is not expected that such a contingency will arise here. This city has been particularly well favored in military recognition, with a cavalry unit and an infantry company and it may be, after all, that we will not lose the cavalry troop and that this city will become the base of an artillery unit also.

In event of the accomplishment of such a plan, now being worked on with some degree of prospect of success, it would be an easy and a short step to bring about the establishment of a headquarters company here. With four units of the military strength of Ohio located in Lima, the erection of a commodious armory here by the state would be a necessity and doubtless would quickly follow.

America has been fed up on war and the heart of most everyone sings with hope that international conflicts will never again be permitted to occur. But it is likely vain to hope for such a happy situation, even in the face of an arms limitation conference. There is little doubt but that military organization will always be necessary in this country. Since this is admittedly true, distribution of military units will be made so as to have all parts of the country at least partially represented.

It should have been done long ago, but it's not too late to start boosting for an armory in Lima. Let's begin now.

THE FUTURE

FUTURE generations will live to be 300 years old, says a big insurance expert. That is getting to be old stuff and doesn't cause much comment. But the insurance man makes his audience sit up and take notice, by prophesying that the legal age will be 125 years, in that glorious future.

Twenty-one for men and 18 for women is too soon for the legal age. It should be advanced. Difficulty is, majority of minds never mature. Some folks wouldn't mature mentally if they lived to be 1000.

EXPENSIVE

STEEERS bound for market, used to be driven up from the Texas Panhandle to Dodge City, Kas., and other shipping points. Railroads came along, did the work more cheaply, and the cattle trails went to seed.

The pendulum swings back. Into Denver comes a cattle herd, driven from a ranch 100 miles away. This saves $700 freight. Prohibitive freight rates make the old-fashioned way cheaper.

PENALTY

MANY envied Ponzi, admired his cunning. Now Ponzi's in jail. His wife is broke and says she will become a private secretary. Ponzi's palace-home and all its costly furnishings go under the auctioneer's hammer. Hell is not as pleasant as the road to it.

AS YOU LIKE IT

A San Francisco poet says American don't know how to drink. Oh, no; they haven't forgotten so soon.

Russia's most noted basso is on his way to the United States. But whether he's coming to sing or to eat, we don't know.

This is National Umbrella Week and locally it's Visit Your Laundry Week. Next week National Squash and Carrots Week and locally it will be Call on Your Coal Man Week.

ABE MARTIN

You'd hardly know the Sole's car since he's remained in the wheels unchanged the license. Constable Newt Flinn confiscated fifty-nine quarts of bottled in burn whiskey this morn'g.

GOBLINS' NIGHT

HALLOWE'EN customs date back into remote antiquity. They are all that we have left to remind us that our ancestors believed in goblins, banshees, ghouls and other evil spirits that were supposed to roam the earth in the darkness of night.

In the early days of the Christian church, the first of November was set aside as All Saints' Day, it being impossible to observe a separate day for each saint.

The night preceding All Saints' Day was known as Hallowe'en. It was a fearful night, during which the evil spirits were believed to burst from their bonds and haunt the world, having a last fling prior to the sacred day.

The property damages which they were supposed to inflict have been pictorially passed on thru the centuries in Hallowe'en customs of carrying away gates, tearing down fences and heaping old cabbages and trash on porches of the unpopular.

There was, however, a brighter side to Hallowe'en, as celebrated by many of the ancient peoples. It marked the end of harvest and the beginning of new terms of farm tenancy and landlordship. Renewing his contracts with his tenants, or making arrangements with new ones, it was the Hallowe'en custom of landlords to bring forth the flowing bowl, baskets of red apples and sacks of nuts. Landlords have changed.

Wanton destruction of property has made Hallowe'en a night of devils. This year, why not be sensible? Keep evil chained up and observe Hallowe'en in the spirit of All Saints' Day—by distributing food and clothing to the needy. How about it, Boy Scouts?

THE POWER OF WILL

FAR out on the ocean, heart disease attacked A. E. Archibold, captain of the steamship Huron. He brought his ship to port, New York. When it was tied up to the dock:

"All right, pilot?" asked the captain.

"All right, sir!" said the pilot.

Captain Archibold saluted wearily and fell dead. He had fought death off until his task was completed. You know similar cases—people standing up under terrific pressure, then going to pieces after reaching their goal. That is will power—the superiority of mind over matter. You can accomplish almost any physical feat if you have the will power.

AUTOS

PENNSYLVANIA now leads all states in the number of passenger automobile registrations, taking the honor away from New York, says the Bureau of Public Roads.

But what state do you think has the most cars in proportion to its population? North Dakota! It has four cars for every 21 inhabitants. Iowa comes second. New York is third, with four cars for every 62 people.

The East had better think twice before commenting about the West being slow.

GLANCES

WHEN a girl's eyes get too blue they need looking into.

FIFTY-FOUR per cent of our homes are rented," says the census. Others must charge too much.

THE woods ought to be beautiful; posies are always scouring them.

ONE state that allows women to work 24 hours a day is the state of matrimony.

HARDING saw the Republican party while in Georgia and says he is looking fine.

A DEMOCRACY must not include pedestrians; the world hasn't been made safe for them.

TROTZKY, of New York, certainly did make a name for himself. He has changed it to Travers.

EDNA KRIPPENDORF, of Cincinnati, swallowed a dime and then a penny for war tax. An X-ray showed small change in Edna.

THE REMORA

(BY WM. E. BARTON)
The United States of America makes many and varied efforts to educate the people of this fair land. For instance, there is the marine laboratory at Wood's Hole, Massachusetts. That is where, they have fertilized by artificial means the eggs of certain forms of life and thus obtained interesting results.

Among the most interesting acquaintances I made there some years ago was the remora. I had heard about him, but had not seen him. There he was in the same tank with a shark.

The remora is a very small fish, compared with a shark, being at most two feet long and very thin. Upon the top of his head is a flattened oval spot, with remarkable powers of suction. The remora swims up under or beside or even over the shark, attaches himself by this device and lets the shark perform all the labor necessary to their travel. They tell different stories about the remora and the shark. I have heard that a shark will sometimes try to rid himself of this free-rider, and become so worried as almost to have nervous prostration, but that he rarely if ever succeeds in killing his companion.

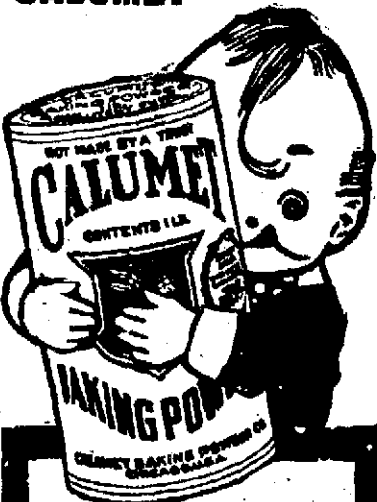

I have heard that the remora by his suction derives nourishment from the shark and weakens him, but this has been disproved. I have heard that the shark after a time gets to like his companion, thus making a virtue of a necessity. I have been told that the remora guides the shark, and he is sometimes called the "pilot-fish," but this story I believe is discredited and the name tender and sweet

—just tastes delightful

Buy
BERKSHIRE
HAM

MILLER & HART
CHICAGO

COUNT ON CALUMET

If you want every bake-day to be a success—if you want positive results at an economical cost—use and depend on

CALUMET BAKING POWDER

Bakings are always uniform in the millions of homes where it is used. Everything served is just right—tender, light, perfectly raised and thoroughly wholesome.

Failures are unknown.

Guard the purity of your bakings—use Calumet. It's pure in the can—pure in the baking. Contains only such ingredients as have been officially approved by the United States Pure Food Authorities.

Order Calumet today
—it will pay.

A pound can of Calumet contains full 12 oz. Some baking powders come 12 oz. cans instead of 10 oz. cans. So you get a pound when you want it.

Let No Corn Spoil an Hour

Any Corn Can Be Stopped Now, Any Month, by a Touch

SCIENCE has solved the corn problem. One can now stop a corn ache instantly, and shortly remove the whole corn.

The method is gentle, scientific, sure. A famous chemist invented it. A surgical dressing house of world-wide fame produces it.

It is Blue-jay—the liquid or the plaster. A touch applies it. The pain stops at once. Soothe the whole corn, however ancient, fissured and cornaceous. It makes harsh treatments unnecessary. It makes every corn ache a folly.

Your druggist has Blue-jay. Let it end your corn—tonight.

Liquid or Plaster
Blue-jay stops pain—ends corns
a Bauer & Black product

Is Uric Acid Making You Ill?

Have you wondered what is causing you to feel so weak and tired—so "blue" and nervous? It may be uric acid. You have probably eaten too much meat which has filled your blood with uric acid, weakened your kidneys and caused that wearing backache, the headaches, dizziness and other bad feelings. Don't wait for serious trouble. Lighten your diet and use Doan's Kidney Pills. Thousands recommend them. Ask your neighbor!

A Lima Case
Mrs. Caroline Dankert, 1129 Forest Ave., says: "My kidneys were out of order and I had a dull, miserable ache in my back that sapped my strength. The soreness across my kidneys made it hard to stoop and my kidneys acted irregularly. Doan's Kidney Pills soon relieved the backache and regulated my kidneys."—Adv.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS
60¢ at all Drug Stores
Foster-McIlburn Co., Mfg. Chem. Buffalo, N.Y.

EAT AT THE SPOT

Delicious Sandwiches
Wholesome Coffee
Quick—Clean—Service
Southeast Corner Square
Ladies and Gentlemen

WHOLE RYE BREAD 11c

ENGRAVERS AND ARTISTS

DRAWINGS & ILLUSTRATIONS FOR ALL PURPOSES
HAIR TONES, ZINC ETCHINGS, ELECTROTYPE
THE LIMA PHOTOENGRAVING CO.
116 W. NORTH ST. LIMA, OHIO PHONE M. 3432
THE HOUSE OF CO-OPERATION

If You Want
Cheap Dry-Cleaning
DON'T CALL
MAIN 4747

HEALTH TALKS

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well
REWARD OF COLD

While almost everyone regards colds as harmless things that must be suffered with patience, it is just these "slight attacks" that may be the most serious.

Many serious diseases have their trivial beginnings in a slight cold, or a cold reduces one's vitality and resistance so that any contagious disease that is about finds a ready victim.

You do not have to have a cold even if it is the first of the world's coughing and sneezing. The germ of a cold, of course, is always present, waiting the chance to get in its work. If your body is in its normal fit, the germs are ineffective. It is when one's resistance is lowered that it is ready to strike.

Overheating the body, either by heavy, tight clothing or hot rooms, weakens the skin. Then when one emerges into the open air, he "catches a cold." This is the reason for the "draft" idea of catching cold. It is not a draft that makes one catch cold but the lowering of resisting power by the quick changes of temperature.

Lack of fresh air is another reason for colds. One should sleep at ways with a large amount of fresh air in circulation. Out door exercise and deep breathing are essential.

Constipation renders the body low in vitality and readily liable to colds.

Overeating and fatigue also produce conditions in which one is liable to infection.

One of the best ways of getting rid of a cold is to go to bed if possible. This rests the body and keeps it at an even temperature.

A good cathartic should be taken to eliminate the poisons in the system. The diet during a cold should be simple and in a small quantity. Drink a glass of water every half hour.

If the cold is severe or if it gets in the chest develops a physician should be summoned immediately. Medical treatment will shorten the duration of the cold and prevent complications which might develop from the continued weakness of resisting powers of the body.

DID PAIN DISTURB YOUR SLEEP?

THE pain and torture of rheumatism can be quickly relieved by an application of Sloan's Liniment. Brings warmth, ease and comfort and lets you sleep soundly. Always have a bottle handy and apply when you feel the first twinge. It penetrates without rubbing. It's splendid to take the pain out of tired, aching muscles, sprains and strains, stiff joints, and lame backs. For forty years pain's enemy. Ask your druggist.

At all druggists—35c, 70c, $1.00.

Sloan's Liniment

COAL — $6.65 a Ton

Twenty-five more cars of big lot WHITE ASH Coal. Order quick. CITY COAL CO.

ROBINSON'S SHOE SHOP

115 West North Street
LIMA, OHIO

First-Class Shoe Repairing
"Work Done by SHOEMAKERS, Not by Cobblers"

Prompt Service. Prices Right
Wm. Robinson, Prop.

American STAG Cigars

At Your Favorite
Cigar Counter
THE DEISEL-WEMMER CO.
MFGS.
Lima, O.

DANCE CLASS GUESTS

Mrs. and Mrs. Ralph McCauley, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Blomont and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hallen are the guests of the dance class which will be held at the McCauley residence on W. Spring-st., Saturday evening. Hallen's suggestions were attentively met throughout the evening. The evening was enjoyed in dancing and at a late hour a three course luncheon was served.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gilton, Mr. and Mrs. W. Morgan Davis, Dr. and Mrs. F. H. Wittenbrook, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Tarr, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Roberts and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Williams.

Daughters of the American Revolution will meet at the home of Mrs. J. W. Roby, of W. Spring-st., Saturday at 2:30 p. m. promptly. Mrs. H. M. Moulton, Mrs. A. D. Peters and Mrs. H. M. Dille will act as assistant hostesses. The program will be devoted to the Pilgrimage Tercentenary.

Mrs. C. S. Baxter will give a group of songs. Miss Mary K. Roby will play "House Negro" by Cyril Scott play. Mrs. J. K. Bannister will read from "The Courtship of Miles Standish."

Mrs. Carl Wagner and children of Toledo are visiting Mrs. Wagner's mother, Mrs. Frank Graham, of W. McKibben-st.

Donald Koch welcomed a group of friends Friday evening at a very enjoyable Halloween party. Games and music were the pastimes after which a dainty luncheon was served.

Those present included Ruth Johnson, Inez Gandy, Garnet Dorsey, Maxine Cornelius, Lois Fritz, Betty Jean Smith, Mary Elizabeth Uffell, Vesta Stevens, Ellen Wilson, Kathryn Quilling, Louise Smith, Mary Margaret Fisher, Roland Silverman, Calista Koch, Vane Pratt, Kenneth Brown, Edward Graft, Max Childs, Leo Sheely, Kenneth McGee, Raymond Brown, Eldon Basinger and Thomas Mahoney.

Mrs. William Justice of S. Elizabeth-st. is home from a visit with relatives in various parts of West Virginia.

Miss Eleanor Frick and C. O. Stenker were united in marriage Friday evening by the Rev. Todd of Bluffton. In attendance were Miss Cora Burr and Ralph Stenker. The bride is a graduate of the Bluffton high school and the Lima Business College. Prior to her marriage she was connected with office of Hartman's store. The bridegroom is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan college and is affiliated with the Gamma Delta fraternity.

Mr. and Mrs. Stenker departed for the Lisbon high school, where the bridegroom is principal of the Lisbon high school.

Misses James and John Shanahan of W. Grand-ave. entertained a group of friends with a pleasant Halloween party. Music and games were the amusements and later a delicious repast was served.

Guests included Paul Leahy, Raymond O'Brien, Richard Finn, James Brennan, Edward Murray, Edward Fisher, James Barber, Harold Finn, James Mitchell, Alvin and Lester Vincke, Edward Gerleman, Roy Sullivan, Clayton Scully, Raul Zink, Richard De John, Walter Morris, Leo McFarland and Edmund J. Shanahan.

L. J. Fisher will return to Ranger, Texas, sometime this week after a visit with his brother, C. M. Fisher and family, of W. High-st.

Sunday a large audience enjoyed the first of a series of lectures which are being delivered by Mrs. Adah Dodd Poline of Dayton, this week at Market-st. Presbyterian church under the auspices of the Missionary Union. She had for her subject, "The Bible, the Source of Cultural Influence."

Mrs. Poline is very prominent in women's affairs in Dayton. She is vice-president of the Burroughs club, an organization composed of 300 members. During the past week she lectured every afternoon and evening with a view of promoting city affairs. She gave a talk on "A Summer in Norway" during the past week in Dayton, three hundred dollars being raised for Americanization work in that city.

During her stay in this city, Mrs. Poline is the house guest of Mrs. Lash M. Butler, of W. Spring-st.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Kincaid, of Canton, are visiting with Mr. Kincaid's sister, Mrs. F. M. Long, of N. Jefferson-st. They will return to their home Tuesday.

Mrs. Hugh Burke welcome the members of the Kee Mar club at her home with a masquerade party. In an enjoyable contest, Mrs. C. Nesbitt was successful. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. G. Meyers in serving a delicious luncheon.

Next meeting will be held with Mrs. C. Blunk, of W. North-st.

A very interesting musical program has been arranged for the meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of the First Baptist church Friday in the church parlors. The following numbers will be given: Vocal solo, Mrs. A. L. Metheny; violin solo, Mrs. Donald McHaffey; reading, Mrs. T. N. Eysenbach; vocal solo, Mrs. Fred E. Gooding; and piano solo, Miss Esther Lynn. Hostesses in charge are Mesdames Chapman, Sellers, Dunn, Hoyt, Garretson and MacDonnell.

Mrs. J. R. McDonnell, Mrs. W. H. Wright, Mrs. D. E. Bechtoldt and Mrs. H. D. Hamilton spent the day Sunday with Mrs. Thomas Gilton, of Middleport.

Members of the Excelsior club will meet with Mrs. George Highfield, of 761 W. High-st., Thursday afternoon.

Miss Marjorie Fritz, of N. Pierce-st. charming with a masquerade party Friday. Games, contests and dancing were the pastimes and later a dainty luncheon was served.

Guests included Marjorie Hunter, Mary Sangers, Mildred Whitley, Eleanor Moore, Velma Kaplan, Alice Louise Bolton, Jean Shepherd, Edna Gohlke, Candace and Charlotte Kirk, Dorothy Preston, Rose Thomas, Evelyn Summers and Pearl Henigar.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

MONDAY.
East Chief Association entertain Pythian Sisters, Castle Hall, evening.
Masquerade party, Shawnee Country club, evening.
Hallowe'en dance, Elks Home.
Phi Delta Chi sorority dance, Bethany Guild of First Baptist church, 7:30 p. m.
Monitor Club, 6 o'clock dinner, Hotel Norval.
Sorority, Hallowe'en party, Mrs. E. Ogilvie, evening.
Lanore Guild of First Baptist church, Mrs. J. M. Meyer, evening.
Mary Thomas Guild of First Baptist church, Mrs. Carl Webber.
Mrs. Faye Randall and Mrs. Carl Weber, Hallowe'en party, evening.
TUESDAY.
Tri Theta sorority, Miss Doris Ginter, evening.
Members of Domestic Science club to entertain their husbands with a Hallowe'en party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Crippen.
Young People's Missionary society of Bethany Lutheran church, Miss Evelyn Schaff and Arthur Schaff, 7:30 p. m.
Joint meeting of league of Women Voters and Legislative Committee of the Federated clubs, public library, 7:30 p. m.
Day Nursery, Board of Nursery, 10 a. m.
Etude club, Miss Violet Bradley.
Koneta Circle, Mrs. C. F. Bliss, afternoon.
Woman's Relief Corps, 7:30 p. m.
Community Sewing Class, Federation, Mrs. Theodore Eysenbach.
Astronomy class, City Federation, Mrs. W. B. Kirk, 7:30 p. m.
Philatelic class of the First Baptist church, Mrs. S. A. Hardy, 6 p. m.
Woman's Auxiliary of Christ Episcopal church to serve dinner to members of church at 5 p. m.

Saturday evening one of the prettiest Hallowe'en parties of the season was given by Miss Beatrice Roeder at her country home. Corn shocks, bowers, of oak leaves and autumn flowers were effectively used throughout the rooms. The lights were dimmed with orange crepe paper. The evening was enjoyed in amusements and at a late hour a delicious luncheon was served. About 30 guests were in attendance.

Good Cheer class of the Market-st. Presbyterian church will entertain with Hallowe'en party at the home of Mrs. George Eckert, of 979 W. High-st., Friday at 7 p. m.

Woman's Auxiliary of Christ Episcopal church will entertain the members of Christ Episcopal church with a dinner Tuesday at 5 p. m. at the church.

Miss Ella Coffey and Miss Adelaide Blund enjoyed the day Sunday at Ft. Wayne.

Mrs. C. A. Willower, of Bellefontaine-ave. and Mrs. Harry K. Willower have issued invitations for a 1 o'clock luncheon to be given Thursday at the Willower home.

Miss Grace Loewer and Roy Loewer, of E. Market-st., entertained a coterie of guests at their home Friday. The evening was pleasantly whittled away in games and music and at a late hour refreshments were served.

Those present included Misses Harriett Louise McEldey, Zelma Belles, Violet Ewing, Frances Jeanette Deewerster, Thelma Derringer, Aris, Olive and Minnie Bigelow, Isabel Roof, Edna Loewer, Robert La-ranch, Vinton Roof, Benjamin Roof, Floyd Corrier, Ralph Arnold, Russell and Harold Loewer.

Mrs. W. R. Reed and daughter Evelyn and son Robert and Donald Ferner, of Tulsa, Okla., motored to this city for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Haley, of St. Johns-ave.

Mrs. E. J. McFarland, of N. Main-st. entertained with a masquerade party at the pleasure of her children, Leo and Mary and a group of their friends. Games and contests were the diversions, Helen Dibling and Regina Zink being successful. A dainty lunch was served by the hostess, who was assisted throughout the evening by Mrs. A. A. Welsh, Mrs. Jacob Wise and Mrs. Joseph Miller.

Guests included Mary Flavin, Agnes Murphy, Regina and Pauline Zink, Jane O'Connell, Ellen McFarland, Mary Agnes O'Brien, Catherine and Loretta McFarland, Genevieve O'Brien, Helen Dibling, Rose Clancy, Doris and Wilma Ulrich, Cecilia Phine and Robert Miller, Cecilia Phine and Rita Finn, Martha Wise, Edward Grieman, James Barber, James and John Shanahan, Edward Murphy, Budd Zink, Eugene, Bernard and Harold Finn, Paul Leahy, Clayton Scully, John Leahy, John F. Welsh and Eugene McFarland.

Mrs. Jacob Wise and Miss Selma Courtman entertained with a Hallowe'en party Friday evening. Dancing and games were enjoyed and at a late hour a dainty luncheon was served. The hostesses were assisted by Mrs. John Welsh and Mrs. Edward McFarland.

Guests included Miss Velma Fox, Maude Leidner, Clio Ulrich, Mildred Moore, Georgianna Ritter, Vivian Stewart, Florence Sawmiller, Lloyd MacDonnell, Leo McClure, David Garlingman, Ralph Lobnitz, Clifford Rison, Howard Courtman and William Boegel.

Miss Pauline Allen, of S. McDonnell-st. was hostess to a group of friends at a most enjoyable masquerade party Friday. Music and dancing were enjoyed throughout the evening and at a late hour a delicious repast was served.

Guests for the evening included Misses Ruth Finkle, Marvel Boesel, Opal Gordon, Nell Lambert, Zara McComb, Messrs. William Ernest, George Boehm, Darrel Creps, Zury Bells, Eugene Heffner, George Conrad, Harold Allen, Paul Schimpf and Alpha Vanschoyck.

Philatelic class of the First Baptist church will meet with Mrs. S. A. Hardy, of 343 S. Charles-st., Tuesday at 6 p. m.

WHY CHAPLIN, PICKFORD, DOUG ARE FAMOUS

(By ETHEL WAGNER)

THIS is a preachment on greatness.

The four most popular motion picture players of the day are Charles Chaplin, Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and William S. Hart.

This, considering the world at large, in any one community some other player may have a greater following. But attendance figures "from Greenland's icy mountains to India's coral strand" prove that the above four are the most popular.

Paradoxical as it may seem, their greatness lies mostly in their humility. They do not consider themselves greater than their art. As time has changed, as the public taste in entertainment has changed in the past decade, they have changed.

Mary and Doug spend several hours a day in academic studies.

"The Four Horsemen" Most Enthusiastically Received

YOU will admit, after you have seen "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," that Rex Ingram, the exceedingly young man responsible for its flawless direction, deserves to be placed in the front ranks of directors. He has made an extraordinary picture.

Readers of Vincente Blasco Ibanez' famous book of the same title will know that is no easy matter to boil down for screen purposes a big, colorful story for such a film.

This, Ingram has found it possible to do, and with the aid of Jean Mathis, who prepared the scenario, has injected a bit of everything the book contained—and done it so clearly, with such delicate attention to detail, that you marvel at the completed masterpiece.

The four sinister horsemen, War, Famine, Death and Pestilence, appear in the horizon just often enough to thrill. Some directors we know of would have brought them in incessantly.

Also, not enough can be said of the acting of each and every member of the cast. Alice Terry as Marguerita is superb and Rudolph Valentino as the dashing, young tango dancer is perhaps the best actor in the picture. Each and every one has given to his or her particular character a subtle something which makes for an unusual degree of naturalness. You believe.

The story hasn't been given here because nearly everybody knows it. This reviewer never got thru the book, but even if you don't know the story, you'll enjoy the movie the more.

By all means, go to see "The Four Horsemen." It is worthy of your attention and your money; its beauty, broadness and the finer elements of cinema art are as certain to impress you as anything!

The Sigma features this production all week. Seats are reserved for all performances. And there's a vocal and orchestral program preceding the showing that is simply great!

"The Lost Romance" With Three Favorites

HEHE's three nice people, named Conrad Nagel, Jack Holt and Lois Wilson, to be seen in a little matrimonial farce. The picture has merit for the characters all seem true to life. It's the story of what could happen to most anyone.

The title is self-explanatory. A sweet little librarian is beloved by two men, one an explorer, the other a young doctor. Well, she chooses the young doctor, of course (Jack Holt nearly always gets a girl).

Five years of married life has robbed their home of every vestige of romance and humor. The petty little things loom up large and awful. The misss grows bored with her busy husband—all the busy husband sees of his wife is in his phone calls. You see, Romance has fled!

The guardian angel, in the form of Miss Betty, who is the young doctor's aunt, arrives just at the crucial moment, and she begs them to visit her and renew their romance where they first found it. It sounds lovely. They go; they nearly find it, but a pin prick, a sneeze, and the potty things of life loom up again. Now the third party comes back. He's been in Africa all these years while his love for the little girl has grown stronger each day. He can furnish the romance. You know, of course, that she will remain with her husband, but now she learns her lessons well, don't expect me to tell you everything!

"The Lost Romance" is one of these pictures which is forever finding you. Several times you find yourself gathering up your gloves and umbrella, preparatory to departing. You could almost swear it is going to end. But it doesn't.

I particularly liked Miss Wilson in the role of the much beloved one. Not one of your sleek, languorous beauties, but a winner every time. Mr. Holt and Mr. Nagel are good in their parts, and Miss Fontaine LaRue as the lady who helped the three of them over the rocks is sweet and unassuming. I do wish she had married the explorer.

The Faurot Opera House features "The Lost Romance" today and until Thursday. The program also includes one of those clever little stop-fable cartoons.

Chaplin sneaked off the other day to see the prisoners at Sing Sing when not a publicity man or reporter was about.

Bill Hart has spent 12 years studying the life of Patrick Henry whose life he will portray in his next film, the most pretentious of his career.

Chaplin, Pickford, Fairbanks and Hart are great because they are in droll, sincere, humble and vitally interested in their fellow men.

The same virtues were attributes of Lincoln, Roosevelt and all other great characters of all time.

SPORTS IN FILMS.
Ernest Truex, pint-size stage comedian, is making a two-reel football movie. It will be interesting to compare that burlesque with Charles Ray's serious attempt to enact the role of star halfback in "Two Minutes To Go."

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Vera Steadman. She's 22, a star in Christie comedies and mother of twins.

Ernest Truex as the hero of his football movie, "Little, But Oh My!"

DANNY LUND and company of Triangle girls, entered upon his second week at Orpheum theatre on Sunday. This is a most unusual occurrence, and speaks well for the pulling qualities of the said Mr. Lund. The people must like him, or they wouldn't be staying here another week.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance to use picturesque backgrounds and costumes and dances.

Those of you who went to see the Danny Lund company last week and enjoyed their offering, should be mightily well pleased with this week's bill.

So—"In Honolulu" which at one time Weber and Fields played on the road, is the current offering. It will run, matinee and evening until Thursday, when another change will be made. "In Honolulu" gives the company a chance

KANSAS OIL GUSHER BRINGS FORTUNE TO JESS WILLARD-ACQUIRES LARGE LEASES TO SPECULATE

WICHITA, Kas.—If Jess Willard, former world's heavyweight champion, ever again enters the prize ring something other than the financial consideration will influence him to do so. This because Willard is "sitting on top of the world" in the oil industry, as the result of an oil gusher which he brought in near Eureka, Greenwood-co, Kansas.

Willard has been "wild catting" for the last six months in Greenwood-co, where he acquired 9,000 acres of leases. In the center of this big tract he had the good luck to bring in a gusher, opening up a new oil field with the first well he drilled. It is said that the bringing in of this gusher has made Jess Willard's oil property worth close to $2,000,000. Additional wells that Jess is drilling will increase the value of his holdings.

Old time oil men remark that while Willard is proud of opening up a new oil field, neither the big fortune nor the prominence it has given him in the oil industry has "gone to his head."

"Big Jess couldn't get the swelled head if he fell heir to the Standard Oil company," said an oil scout after an interview with Willard. "He is just as common as an old shoe. He left a big Oklahoma oil man worth millions to hear my story, and talked with me for half an hour."

Jack Jenkins, a Texas oil operator and old friend, whom Willard had not seen for three years, called on him, and, after "visiting" for an hour, Willard made Jenkins a present of forty acres close to the gusher. "Just for old times' sake," said Willard. "For three months Willard has been spending his time at Eureka attending most solely to his oil operations. He will make his home there in the future. "In justice to my oil interests I cannot at this time give any attention to the consideration of sports," was Jess' reply to question about his returning to the ring

LIMA-WAPAK GAME TO BE PLAYED NEXT SUNDAY

Kiwanis Bowling League To Start Thursday Night

The Kiwanis Bowling League will get under way Thursday at the Broadway Alloys, when four teams will hop off in their winter journey with the hopes of coping the honors when the season ends February 21.

A glance at the personnel of the teams will convince anyone that the Kiwanis league this winter will produce some real bowling, since some of the best pin smashers of the city have been lined up.

Here's the teams and their schedule.

Team No. 1—Frank Thomas, Elias Mosier, E. J. Curtis, Fred Bradley, Al A. Trevar, L. H. Merritt.

Team No. 2—Harry Gosherry, Nathan Coon, T. C. Harris, Howard Fletcher, Frank Schenk, A. C. Stuart.

Team No. 3—Lee C. Fannor, P. W. Crawford, Dr. Oliver Steiner, O. J. Delbrick, A. Simons.

Team No. 4—W. L. McClain, Geo. Shaulman, Francis O'Connor, Dale Greenman, Joe Gooding, O. O. Dube.

Team No. 5—Art Herrett, H. L. Kennerly, Simon Fishel, Chester Cable, C. N. Scott, J. L. Jolley.

Team No. 6—Wallace H. King, Frank Mitchell, Dr. W. T. McGriff, Mark H. Koller, Walter S. Johnson.

Team No. 7—Joe Goodrick, Walt DeWeese, Wm. J. Renc, A. D. Allright, Vern Hoeselman, H. A. Thomas.

Team No. 8—F. A. Burkhardt, H. A. Stonecker, F. L. Van Pelt, Dick Juddins, I. W. Green.

SCHEDULE OF GAMES

Thurs. Nov. 3rd, team 1 vs. team 2.

Thurs. Jan. 5th, team 3 vs. team 4.

Tues. Nov. 8th, team 5 vs. team 6.

Tues. Jan. 10th, team 7 vs. team 8.

Thurs. Nov. 10th, team 1 vs. team 2.

Thurs. Jan. 12, team 2 vs. team 3.

Tues. Nov. 15th, team 3 vs. team 4.

Tues. Jan. 17th, team 4 vs. team 5.

Thurs. Nov. 17th, team 1 vs. team 2.

Thurs. Jan. 19th, team 2 vs. team 3.

Tues. Nov. 22nd, team 3 vs. team 4.

Tues. Jan. 24th, team 4 vs. team 5.

Tues. Nov. 29th, team 1 vs. team 2.

Thurs. Jan. 26th, team 2 vs. team 3.

Thurs. Dec. 1st, team 3 vs. team 4.

Tues. Jan. 31st, team 4 vs. team 5.

Tues. Dec. 6th, team 1 vs. team 2.

Thurs. Feb. 2nd, team 2 vs. team 3.

Thurs. Dec. 8th, team 3 vs. team 4.

Tues. Feb. 7th, team 4 vs. team 5.

Tues. Dec. 13th, team 5 vs. team 6.

Thurs. Feb. 9th, team 6 vs. team 7.

Thurs. Dec. 15th, team 1 vs. team 2.

Tues. Feb. 14th, team 2 vs. team 3.

Tues. Dec. 20th, team 3 vs. team 4.

Thurs. Feb. 16th, team 4 vs. team 5.

Thurs. Dec. 22nd, team 1 vs. team 2.

Tues. Feb. 21st, team 2 vs. team 3.

LEAGUE STARS ARE TO RETURN HERE, MANAGERS SAY

Action of the weather man in holding his water dispenser on a 40 degree angle from Saturday noon until eight o'clock Sunday morning, caused the postponement of the Lima-Wapak game.

When Old Sol broke thru the cloudy skies about the noon hour, hundreds of fans rejoiced in the anticipation of seeing the game played. But these hopes were shattered when they arrived at the park and found that the game had been postponed on account of wet grounds.

Oscar Langhorst, manager of the Wapakoneta team, and Bernie Halloran, manager of the Independents, decided to call the game off after the Cook twins and their several assistants battled the water on the local park from midnight until 8:30 Sunday morning, when they were forced to take the hint.

EVANS DISAPPOINTED
Despite the fact that the rain was general all thru this section, several hundred fans who journeyed to Lima early Sunday morning, from surrounding towns hoping on the possibility of the big game being played, were disappointed when it was learned that it had been agreed upon to wait until next Sunday to stage the greatest ball game in the history of Allen-co.

Players of both teams were on hand in Lima Sunday morning, and it was a sad looking bunch of ball players when they were told that the game would not be played.

Halloran and Langhorst lost no time in holding a conference with their respective players, and shortly after noon announced definitely that they had made arrangements to have the stars return here next Sunday.

Billy Southworth, Hank Gowdy and Wilber Cooper are so interested in the inter-county championship game that they decided to postpone their hunting trip another week so as to help Lima put over the old bash on Longhorns, Houtz & Co., of Wapakoneta.

George Uhle and Wambaggers slated to play with Wapak, were as much disappointed as Halloran's players. It was learned Monday that the 500 tickets that he had been sold for the game can be retained until next Sunday or would be redeemed upon presenting them where they were secured or at the Recreation Building.

Lima Grid Team Wins Game From Bellefontaine

After suffering three consecutive defeats, the Lima City football team turned the tables Sunday and triumphed over the Bellefontaine 12 to 0.

A new aerial attack developed by the locals last week enabled them to wade thru their opponents.

The locals scored two touchdowns in the first two quarters but the Bellefontaine strengthened and held the Lima boys scoreless during the final two periods.

Leo Ayers, manager of the City team, says he has booked the Bellefontaine eleven to play here Armistice day.

The line-up and summary follows:

Positions
Lima: West W. Clancy r e, Edna Phillips r t, Korn-Stolner r e, Fisher c, White l e.

Bellefontaine: J. H. Grant 1 t, H. Ferrell 1 e, F. Glancy 1 e, Cummins, capt., q b.

T. Higgins r h b, Blackburn l h b, Mackin l b, J. Moore.

Touchdowns: Cummins, Blackburn. Referee: Ayers, Lima. Umpire: Rennie, Bellefontaine. Head Lineman, Fisher, Foster, Thiers, Morgan, Lima; Roush, Bellefontaine.

Lima — 6—6—0—0—12.

Bellefontaine — 0—0—0—0—0.

ARCOLA
—is the wonderful new heating device that saves you one-third in your coal bills.

It is the ideal heating plant for the small home, office, flats, store, etc.

An ARCOLA will soon pay for itself by the fuel it saves.

It can be installed, already for heating in one week's time.

JONES-KINN Engineering Co.
Heating and Plumbing Contractor

414 N. MAIN ST. HIGH 6523

Four Big Teams Are Recovering From Wreck Pile

NEW YORK—Four pieces of high class football machinery were in the wreck pile out in the back yard today.

Harvard, Georgia Tech, Dartmouth and Penn skidded off the road Saturday and ended in the ditch.

The "Praying" Colonels, from Cento College pulled the biggest dechelling stunt of the season, when the swerved Harvard off the main track for the first time since 1915.

The southerners did it with such finesse that Harvard hasn't the slightest alibi.

IN FRONT RANKS
Penn State and Cornell stand out as two of the strongest teams in the east. Penn State's convincing victory over Georgia Tech and Cornell's utter rout of Dartmouth put the two big eleven right in the front rank.

Pittsburg, traveling on high speed, knocked Penn out of the running and pushed themselves farther into the ranks of elite.

Yale showed more good form in beating Brown and Princeton exhibited symptoms of old form in beating Virginia.

Captain Jim Robertson, Dartmouth, is still the leading scorer. He has 67 points to his credit. Mack Aldrich, Yale, is next with 66 points. Zimmerman, Syracuse, has scored 16 points and Kenyon, Georgetown, 11.

Yanks To Have New Boss, Fans In Gotham Say

(BY HENRY L. FARRELL)
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK — Miller Huggins piloted the New York Yanks to the American League championship and can the world's series to eight games before he dropped out.

But Huggins is still being patted about by the New York fans. "THE GATE" FOR HIM
It isn't unusual for a pennant winning manager to be recommended for "the gate" but that is Huggins' share of the laurels.

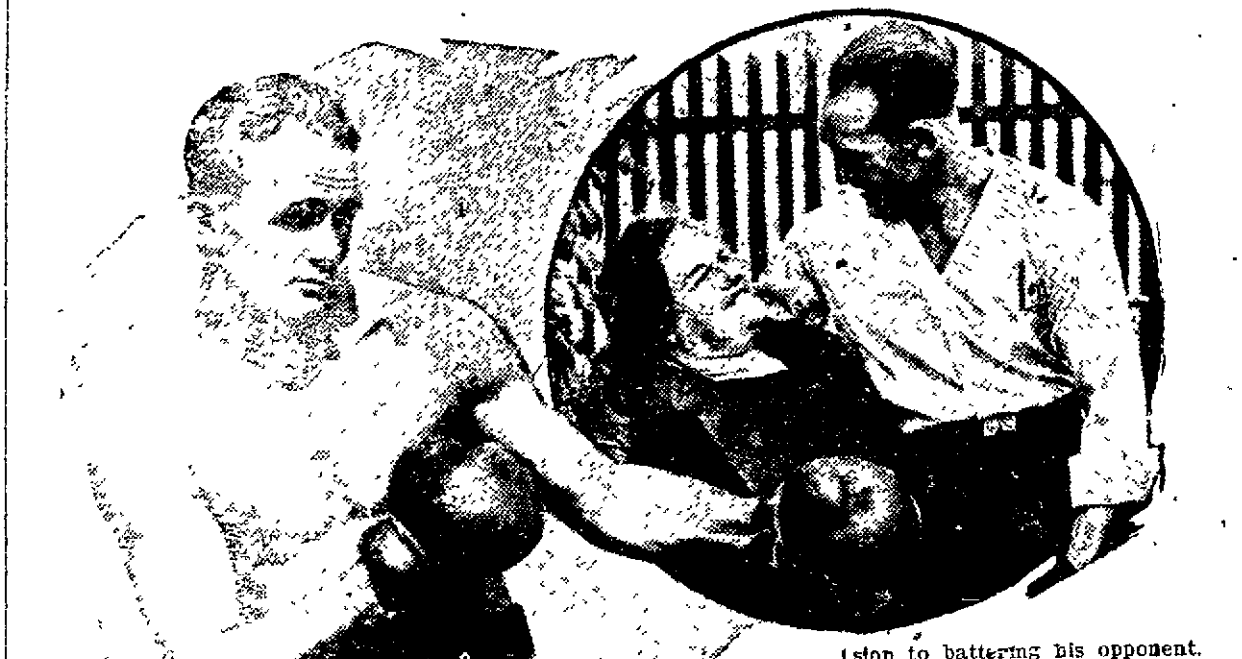

New managers are already being talked of among the Yank following. Some say it will be Ruth, who has the pleasant task of signing a new contract this year. Others have it that Eddie Collins will come from the White Sox in a trade to succeed the present pilot. Still others have the hope that Roger Peckinpaugh, whose wobble cost the game of the series is the new pilot.

TALK DURING SERIES
Even while the series was on these stories were fanned about.

It was even said that Huggins had agreed to manage the St. Louis Cardinals late in the race last year, when he was forced almost to resign by an insurrection of the players.

After the second western trip of the club had started, it was reported and it seemed quite apparent that Huggins was the manager in name only. He never appeared on the field and Ruth and Peck did most of the directing. Huggins' contract has expired. The health of the little manager has been none too good and it is understood that this will be the loophole.

"HAPPY" PREFERS LIFE ON FARM TO RING, BUT HIS K. O. RECORD STEADILY GROWS

So strong has been Littleton's dislike for fighting that it was only after much persuasion by his friends and his boyhood pal and present manager, Willie Sehart, that "Happy" was induced into the ring.

"Happy" Littleton never drinks, smokes or gambles, not even betting on his own bouts. He is never known to carouse with other boys. Not a "sissy" by any means—just a clean-minded, mainly, upstanding young fellow, fond of his farm home, his mother, three brothers and a sister. He finds more enjoyment and pleasure in his home life and friends than he can in cabarets.

"I am really fond of farming," says "Happy." "But I am in the fighting game because of the money there is in it. Some of my friends have criticized me for working slow at the start of a bout, for not rushing in and putting my man away, but I'll tell you frankly that I do not like to fight and I haven't the heart to punish the other fellow until he hurts me first. But I never forget what my mother says to me before I leave the house."

Littleton has never been knocked out and has lost only two decisions, one of 20 rounds with Martin Parks and the other a 15-round affair with Harry Greb. He has many victories to his credit, among them nine kayos.

Governor Of Kentucky To Greet Victorious Centre Eleven Today

DANVILLE, Ky. — Centre, the conquering heroes of the battle with Harvard Saturday, were to arrive this morning at 11:30 o'clock, and this town is going to give them a rousing reception.

Governor Edwin P. Morrow has announced that he will be here at the depot to extend to them the glad hand on behalf of the state of Kentucky.

The Chamber of Commerce held a meeting Sunday night and planned for the reception. The team will be met at the depot and a parade thru the streets of the city will be held. The parade will wind up on Centre's campus.

The student body will be there, the school authorities of Centre and the Kentucky State College for Women have decreed there should be no classes today. All business houses will close.

Dr. W. A. Canfield, Centre's retiring President, is coming home with the boys. He wired Buffalo Sunday that all the men were in excellent condition, not a player suffering any serious injury. Dr. Canfield has returned as President of Centre and accepted the Presidency of Carroll College at Waukesha, Wis, but still is serving at Centre pending the appointment of his successor. He accompanied the boys to Harvard.

It was rumored here Sunday that Charles Moran was going to resign as Centre's coach, but no verification of the rumor could be obtained.

Monday night the eleven will be guests at a Halloween party at the College of Women.

ELECTRIC FIXTURES
and House Wiring at very reasonable prices.

Sweeney Electric Store
Main 2925 110 E. Market St.

DR. F. L. FOUST
DENTAL SPECIALIST
PYORRHEA
PROPHYLAXIS ORTHODONTIA
POLISHING TEETH STRAIGHTENING OF TEETH
SUITE 1811 IN N. A. BANK BLD'G PUBLIC SQUARE LIMA OHIO
PHONE MAIN-235

Our Suggestion would be

Nettleton Shoes
For Men

They have maintained their leadership for over 40 years.

This store has the Nettleton Agency

Crawford's Bootery
Nettleton

Bickory Nuts at Dorsey's.

Nice Section New Honey 25c — Full Quart Strained Honey 75c at Dorsey's.

Suits & Overcoats
$40 and Up
LOOK YOUR BEST
Have It Tailor-Made

Werner & Winkler
Merchant Tailors
308 NORTH MAIN

TIRES
Before you buy your next

TIRES
See the

J. C. TIRE CO.
208 S. Main St. Main 6877

Ohio State Tackle Chicago Squad Saturday

The western conference football race approaches the "crucial" stage this week.

One title contender is almost to be eliminated and there's chance of another going by boards. Teams that haven't lost a game are Ohio State, Chicago, Wisconsin and Iowa.

Ohio State and Chicago will meet in the Winif City Saturday, despite Chicago's 9 to 0 win at Princeton, Ohio is favored in betting has taken place at 7 to 1 odds.

BUCKEYES ALL O. K.
The Buckeyes are in great shape with every regular ready to play the first time this season. They'll idle Saturday and should be in fettle for the Maroon game, bar scrimmage injuries.

Chicago took it easy, winning Colorado 35 to 0. Wisconsin had a romp with Nebraska and rolled up 35 points. Wisconsin is idle next Saturday, plays Michigan at Madison November 19. Both games will be 1 to 1 ones.

IOWA ON ICE
Iowa has things easy for the pace of the season. She plays Minnesota next Saturday. Indiana, number 12 and Northwestern, number 13.

It took all Iowa had to beat weak Purdue team Saturday 11 to 6.

In the other big ten game Saturday, Michigan defeated Illinois 2 to 0.

Indiana lost a non-conference game to Notre Dame 28 to 7. Northwestern won a similar conference clash from De Pauw 10 to 0.

Sure Need It

CINCINNATI—University of Cincinnati football team will start hard week of training, in preparation for its game with Ohio State Saturday with Captain Cro missing from the lineup.

His ankle was badly injured the Wittenberg game. Despite gloomy outlook, however, the Buckeyes are far from discouraged, declare they will show a much proved brand of football against green and white, compared with Saturday's exhibition against Wittenberg.

FOXES CATCH RATS.
HERTFORDSHIRE, Eng. — A large increase of rats in the dumps of London rubbish around here has attracted foxes to this place. Many of the foxes teach their young the art of rat-catching.

New Budded Walnuts at Dorsey's.

TAILORMADE SUITS AND OVERCOATS
$40 AND UP

Nelson & Herbst
N. E. Corner Public Square

THREAD-RUBBER
Willard
INSULATION

The Lima Storage Battery Co.

220 W. Elm, Corner West

PHILADELPHIA DIAMOND GRID BATTERY

With Wood Separators, Guaranteed 18 Months

With Rubber Philco Retainers, Guaranteed Two Years

SIFERD-HOSSELLMAN CO.

125 W. ELM 713 S. MAIN

Stylish Madras SHIRTS
Two Dollars

New and stylish—every one of them, in a wonderful collection of smart patterns for Autumn.

Send them to the laundry a hundred times; they'll come back as fresh looking as the day you bought them.

New Styles in Fall Hats $4 Up

HOFELLER & HIATT
Agency Kahn Tailoring Co.
NORVAL BUILDING

HOFELLER & HIATT

HOFELLER & HIATT

HOFELLER & HIATT

HOFELLER & HIATT

HOFELLER & HIATT

HOFELLER & HIATT

HOFELLER & HIATT

HOFELLER & HIATT

HOFELLER & HIATT

THE FLYING HOOF

By WILLIAM JOHNSON

"Girl," he had whispered, as soon as they were alone together, "you've been simply wonderful. You've stood by me so staunchly that I want to ask you one more favor, I want you to do exactly as I ask tonight without any questions. Will you?"

Suzanne readily enough had answered: "Of course I will."

Then, to her disappointment, the man had relapsed into silence. The car stopped. It was somewhere in the Sixties, off Park avenue, she thought, but not so close as she thought, for a little way, she said, and she started, helped her before she discovered that they were before an unpretentious brownstone house that looked as if it might be unoccupied. As they ascended the entrance, her escort closed the door behind them, and then, after a moment, he gave what appeared to be a signal—two long rings and then two short ones. Suddenly the door was opened.

"Who is there?" a man's voice asked.

"Two friends," Dean replied. "What would you like?"

"Honor and America," said the voice.

"Enter, friends," said the voice.

Wondering into what sort of place they were thus being admitted by a secret password, Suzanne wondered still more at the appearance of the person who had admitted them. He was garbed in a long black robe, like a priest's costume, and his face—or at least the upper part of it—was hidden by a black mask.

"Don't be afraid. It's all right," said Dean reassuringly, conducting her at once to a room in the rear, where from a locker he brought forth two robes similar to that which the other man had worn, except that they were white.

"Suzanne," he said, "as a reward for your valiant services I have arranged for you to be admitted to a secret order—the greatest secret order in the whole world. When you have taken its oath, then I can explain everything that has happened."

Hypnotized by the prospect of solving the mysteries with which she had come in touch, Suzanne asked no questions. She permitted Dean, when both had donned robes and white masks, to escort her to the upper floor where again they faced a closed door.

She clutched nervously at his hand and shivered as he gave two sharp raps at the door. It slid quietly back and Suzanne, with Dean still at her side, found herself in a great room lighted by four tall candles. At one end, on a raised throne, sat a burning incense burner and from above his head shone forth a brilliant white light. As she timidly glanced about she saw grouped in various parts of the room other ghostly white figures, all of them masked, but what startled her most was a great banner of pure white silk stretched along the side wall. On it was the same emblem that she had seen on the lapel of Dean's coat and also on the chauffeurs—two great wings stretching out from what looked like a horse's foot.

"Whom do you bring into this inner circle?" the figure on the throne demanded.

"A candidate for admission," Dean's voice answered from Suzanne's side.

"What is the name of this candidate?"

"Suzanne Trask."

"Who vouches for her?"

"I, your chief, vouch for her," came Dean's voice again.

"I vouch for her," came a voice from the right of the throne, a voice familiar to Suzanne, altho she could not identify it.

"I also vouch for her."

It was a woman's voice coming from the left, and at the sound Suzanne felt relieved. If there were other women here it must be all right.

"What has she done to deserve our friendship?"

"At the risk of her life," Dean's voice answered, "she has preserved documents most precious to us. In fighting for us she has been kidnapped, has been imprisoned, already she has suffered more than most of us."

"Do you give for her the pledge of faith, honor, courage and secrecy?"

"With all my heart, I do," said Suzanne, and she took the figure on the throne, and as she complied he continued, "It is your firm desire to become one of us, to share our secrets and to give your pledge to aid our great undertaking?"

"It is," Suzanne answered solemnly, for although at first she had been inclined to look on the whole thing as some weird joke, the solemnity was impressing her.

"Then," continued the voice from the throne, "as you stand here before the sacred light of truth, raise your right hand and repeat after me this the great oath of the Inner Council of our order. 'I, Suzanne Trask, do hereby swear on my honor, my life and all that I hold dear, from this day forth I pledge myself, my work, my wealth and willingly my life if need be to work for and aid with the utmost that is within me to help establish that sacred ideal of the Friends of the Flying Hoof. I pledge myself to uphold the honor of America, to aid in the enforcement of law and order, to co-operate in the punishment of all who defy our laws, and of dishonest officials who fail to enforce them; and I pledge my faith that I will forever sacredly guard and keep secret all knowledge of the work and actions of this order and of this its Inner Council. Do you swear?' The voice rang out.

"I do swear," said Suzanne.

"By virtue of this authority delegated to me as acting chief," the voice continued, "I do hereby admit you, Suzanne Trask, into the Inner Council."

"And now that it's over," cried Roddy Dean's voice, "let's all unmask. There are a lot of strange things she must know about."

Quickly the masks vanished and Suzanne's eyes turned, not toward Roddy, but in the direction from which the other woman's voice had come. There was a rush across the floor and she found herself in the embrace of Lottie Evans, a girl she had known at school, who had gone abroad in Red Cross work but of whom she had lost track since.

"Oh, Suzanne," her friend cried, "I'm so glad you're one of us. You are just the sort we need. There are big things to be accomplished, and you've done such wonderful work for us already!"

"I congratulate you, Miss Trask," said a man's voice, a voice she recognized.

It was Kenneth Gordon, a Harvard man she had often danced with. Now as each in turn, with masks off, was presented to her, as they crowded about her, seemingly aware of the part she had been playing in Roddy Dean's affairs, the mystery of their actions only puzzled Suzanne more and more. What was this Order of the Flying Hoof into which she had just been admitted?

"But what? It all about?" she asked. "Won't someone tell me what it all means?"

Although another man had preceded her she sensed that Roddy Dean was the leader and it was to him he turned now inquiringly.

"It's high time you explained, Roddy," said Gordon. "Miss Trask certainly has earned the right to know everything."

"Let's go into the council room," said Dean.

He led the way into a smaller room on the same floor, a place filled with comfortable armchairs. As he seated Suzanne the others grouped themselves about and Dean, still wearing his white robe, sat down facing her.

As Suzanne glanced about what impressed her most was the youth of the assembly—its enthusiastic youth. There was not a person there who could be over thirty, and of all of them Roddy, as she shot a shy glance at him, seemed far the most interesting and attractive.

As he sat facing her, his white Women who give Auction Bridge Parties should remember one thing that always "makes good" as a prize—

ED. PINAUD'S LILAC

A half-dozen cartons may be obtained at any drug or department store, and insures the recipient six months of lasting old-fashioned garden fragrance.

ED. PINAUD'S LILAC makes a delightful gift for any season. Fine for handkerchief, atomizer and bath.

Lilac is the one perfume that men don't mind using. They like it especially for use after shaving instead of bay rum or witch hazel.

Buy at Any Good Store

American Import Offices

ED. PINAUD Bldg. NEW YORK

Quality of Products

guaranteed by

Parfumerie Ed. Pinaud

robe giving him an almost ecstatic look, his whole face seemed to be glowing with the fervor of his enthusiasm. For a moment he was silent, as if he might be reflecting with care the words with which he was going to reveal to her the momentous secret.

"It all began in the trenches," said Dean, speaking in a low, even voice, a strange, far away quality in his tone, as if his mind had reverted to far distant scenes, to visions of bloodshed and horror and death. "It began over there."

"Somehow, being over there in the war, seeing the dreadful things we saw in the trenches, seeing men die all around us, gave us all, every man of us, a different aspect of life. War—the sacrificing of men to carry out ideals of nations—became for us a tremendously personal and intimate thing. What was life for? If our lives were to be given for a nation's ideals, were those ideals worth while?"

"We had gone away, you remember, when the whole country was uplifted on a gigantic wave of patriotism; gone away feeling that we were serving the best interests of humanity, all aglow with a fervor to save the world. Then when it was all over, that fight finished, we came back—at least some of us did."

He paused for a moment and all the room was silent.

"We came back," he continued, "and it appealed to us to discover that New York was just the same old mad city that it had been always. Children were dying in the slums for lack of proper food and clothing; scheming and plundering as always; and everybody too busy to bother. On every side was the mad money rush."

"Business men everywhere were saying that what America needed was more 'production'—production of goods, production of profits, production of wealth—and nobody taking a bit of interest about what seemed to us the most important thing of all—the production of American citizens. Was anybody interested in the human material we were producing? Were the slums

being abolished? Was crime being routed, corruption being wiped out?—I talked to some of the others—to fellows who had been in the trenches with me, to people like Miss Evans here, who had been over with the Red Cross—and we found we all had the same sort of feeling. The America we had been so proud of, the America we had so gladly fought for, was going to rot in a wild, senseless scramble for money. The old ideals of honor and honesty seemed to have vanished. We heard boys and girls even talking about things they had 'put over' and 'gotten away with.'"

"We knew that we had done something—something big, perhaps—for America in the war. As we talked among ourselves, we decided if there was not something bigger we could do for America in peace. The war had given us a better understanding of our fellow men. When you have fought side by side with the fellow who used to sweep the streets in front of your home you come to realize that he is a human being like yourself, with pretty much the same faults and the same desires."

"As we looked at New York with reopened eyes it seemed a pretty hopeless place for boys and girls to grow up in if they were to become good American citizens with high ideals."

He paused for a moment and all the room was silent.

"We came back," he continued, "and it appealed to us to discover that New York was just the same old mad city that it had been always. Children were dying in the slums for lack of proper food and clothing; scheming and plundering as always; and everybody too busy to bother. On every side was the mad money rush."

"Business men everywhere were saying that what America needed was more 'production'—production of goods, production of profits, production of wealth—and nobody taking a bit of interest about what seemed to us the most important thing of all—the production of American citizens. Was anybody interested in the human material we were producing? Were the slums

being abolished? Was crime being routed, corruption being wiped out?—I talked to some of the others—to fellows who had been in the trenches with me, to people like Miss Evans here, who had been over with the Red Cross—and we found we all had the same sort of feeling. The America we had been so proud of, the America we had so gladly fought for, was going to rot in a wild, senseless scramble for money. The old ideals of honor and honesty seemed to have vanished. We heard boys and girls even talking about things they had 'put over' and 'gotten away with.'"

"We knew that we had done something—something big, perhaps—for America in the war. As we talked among ourselves, we decided if there was not something bigger we could do for America in peace. The war had given us a better understanding of our fellow men. When you have fought side by side with the fellow who used to sweep the streets in front of your home you come to realize that he is a human being like yourself, with pretty much the same faults and the same desires."

"As we looked at New York with reopened eyes it seemed a pretty hopeless place for boys and girls to grow up in if they were to become good American citizens with high ideals."

He paused for a moment and all the room was silent.

"We came back," he continued, "and it appealed to us to discover that New York was just the same old mad city that it had been always. Children were dying in the slums for lack of proper food and clothing; scheming and plundering as always; and everybody too busy to bother. On every side was the mad money rush."

"Business men everywhere were saying that what America needed was more 'production'—production of goods, production of profits, production of wealth—and nobody taking a bit of interest about what seemed to us the most important thing of all—the production of American citizens. Was anybody interested in the human material we were producing? Were the slums

being abolished? Was crime being routed, corruption being wiped out?—I talked to some of the others—to fellows who had been in the trenches with me, to people like Miss Evans here, who had been over with the Red Cross—and we found we all had the same sort of feeling. The America we had been so proud of, the America we had so gladly fought for, was going to rot in a wild, senseless scramble for money. The old ideals of honor and honesty seemed to have vanished. We heard boys and girls even talking about things they had 'put over' and 'gotten away with.'"

"We knew that we had done something—something big, perhaps—for America in the war. As we talked among ourselves, we decided if there was not something bigger we could do for America in peace. The war had given us a better understanding of our fellow men. When you have fought side by side with the fellow who used to sweep the streets in front of your home you come to realize that he is a human being like yourself, with pretty much the same faults and the same desires."

"As we looked at New York with reopened eyes it seemed a pretty hopeless place for boys and girls to grow up in if they were to become good American citizens with high ideals."

He paused for a moment and all the room was silent.

"We came back," he continued, "and it appealed to us to discover that New York was just the same old mad city that it had been always. Children were dying in the slums for lack of proper food and clothing; scheming and plundering as always; and everybody too busy to bother. On every side was the mad money rush."

"Business men everywhere were saying that what America needed was more 'production'—production of goods, production of profits, production of wealth—and nobody taking a bit of interest about what seemed to us the most important thing of all—the production of American citizens. Was anybody interested in the human material we were producing? Were the slums

being abolished? Was crime being routed, corruption being wiped out?—I talked to some of the others—to fellows who had been in the trenches with me, to people like Miss Evans here, who had been over with the Red Cross—and we found we all had the same sort of feeling. The America we had been so proud of, the America we had so gladly fought for, was going to rot in a wild, senseless scramble for money. The old ideals of honor and honesty seemed to have vanished. We heard boys and girls even talking about things they had 'put over' and 'gotten away with.'"

"We knew that we had done something—something big, perhaps—for America in the war. As we talked among ourselves, we decided if there was not something bigger we could do for America in peace. The war had given us a better understanding of our fellow men. When you have fought side by side with the fellow who used to sweep the streets in front of your home you come to realize that he is a human being like yourself, with pretty much the same faults and the same desires."

"As we looked at New York with reopened eyes it seemed a pretty hopeless place for boys and girls to grow up in if they were to become good American citizens with high ideals."

He paused for a moment and all the room was silent.

"We came back," he continued, "and it appealed to us to discover that New York was just the same old mad city that it had been always. Children were dying in the slums for lack of proper food and clothing; scheming and plundering as always; and everybody too busy to bother. On every side was the mad money rush."

"Business men everywhere were saying that what America needed was more 'production'—production of goods, production of profits, production of wealth—and nobody taking a bit of interest about what seemed to us the most important thing of all—the production of American citizens. Was anybody interested in the human material we were producing? Were the slums

being abolished? Was crime being routed, corruption being wiped out?—I talked to some of the others—to fellows who had been in the trenches with me, to people like Miss Evans here, who had been over with the Red Cross—and we found we all had the same sort of feeling. The America we had been so proud of, the America we had so gladly fought for, was going to rot in a wild, senseless scramble for money. The old ideals of honor and honesty seemed to have vanished. We heard boys and girls even talking about things they had 'put over' and 'gotten away with.'"

"We knew that we had done something—something big, perhaps—for America in the war. As we talked among ourselves, we decided if there was not something bigger we could do for America in peace. The war had given us a better understanding of our fellow men. When you have fought side by side with the fellow who used to sweep the streets in front of your home you come to realize that he is a human being like yourself, with pretty much the same faults and the same desires."

"As we looked at New York with reopened eyes it seemed a pretty hopeless place for boys and girls to grow up in if they were to become good American citizens with high ideals."

He paused for a moment and all the room was silent.

"We came back," he continued, "and it appealed to us to discover that New York was just the same old mad city that it had been always. Children were dying in the slums for lack of proper food and clothing; scheming and plundering as always; and everybody too busy to bother. On every side was the mad money rush."

"Business men everywhere were saying that what America needed was more 'production'—production of goods, production of profits, production of wealth—and nobody taking a bit of interest about what seemed to us the most important thing of all—the production of American citizens. Was anybody interested in the human material we were producing? Were the slums

being abolished? Was crime being routed, corruption being wiped out?—I talked to some of the others—to fellows who had been in the trenches with me, to people like Miss Evans here, who had been over with the Red Cross—and we found we all had the same sort of feeling. The America we had been so proud of, the America we had so gladly fought for, was going to rot in a wild, senseless scramble for money. The old ideals of honor and honesty seemed to have vanished. We heard boys and girls even talking about things they had 'put over' and 'gotten away with.'" ideals. The city was in the hands of a corrupt, powerful band, plundering the people, corrupting the citizens, spreading its slimy, poisonous trail everywhere.

"We knew that we had done something—something big, perhaps—for America in the war. As we talked among ourselves, we decided if there was not something bigger we could do for America in peace. The war had given us a better understanding of our fellow men. When you have fought side by side with the fellow who used to sweep the streets in front of your home you come to realize that he is a human being like yourself, with pretty much the same faults and the same desires."

"What could we do about it? We had youth, enthusiasm, fighting experience—some of us had money. We thought of going into politics but what was the use? It would take too long. We wanted to do something right away, to strike a quick, decisive blow."

"So," said Dean, "we finally decided to fight with us, to help enforce the laws, to clean up the city thru a secret organization, every member of which had been tried and tested before he was admitted. We modeled our organization after college fraternities, with which most of us had been familiar, and we called it 'The Flying Hoof.' Its purpose being swiftly to stamp out corruption wherever we find it. There are various ranks in the membership. It includes chauffeurs, Salvation Army lasses, millionaires—but there isn't a man or woman in it who can't be depended upon to the limit. We work secretly, our plans being directed by this Inner Council of Nine—or ten. I should say, for the number has been increased because of what you have done."

"But I don't understand yet," said Suzanne, "about Judge Keaton and Epstein and Mr. Chiswick. What have you been doing to them?"

(Concluded Tomorrow.)

He paused for a moment and all the room was silent.

"We came back," he continued, "and it appealed to us to discover that New York was just the same old mad city that it had been always. Children were dying in the slums for lack of proper food and clothing; scheming and plundering as always; and everybody too busy to bother. On every side was the mad money rush."

"Business men everywhere were saying that what America needed was more 'production'—production of goods, production of profits, production of wealth—and nobody taking a bit of interest about what seemed to us the most important thing of all—the production of American citizens. Was anybody interested in the human material we were producing? Were the slums

being abolished? Was crime being routed, corruption being wiped out?—I talked to some of the others—to fellows who had been in the trenches with me, to people like Miss Evans here, who had been over with the Red Cross—and we found we all had the same sort of feeling. The America we had been so proud of, the America we had so gladly fought for, was going to rot in a wild, senseless scramble for money. The old ideals of honor and honesty seemed to have vanished. We heard boys and girls even talking about things they had 'put over' and 'gotten away with.'"

"We knew that we had done something—something big, perhaps—for America in the war. As we talked among ourselves, we decided if there was not something bigger we could do for America in peace. The war had given us a better understanding of our fellow men. When you have fought side by side with the fellow who used to sweep the streets in front of your home you come to realize that he is a human being like yourself, with pretty much the same faults and the same desires."

"As we looked at New York with reopened eyes it seemed a pretty hopeless place for boys and girls to grow up in if they were to become good American citizens with high ideals."

He paused for a moment and all the room was silent.

"We came back," he continued, "and it appealed to us to discover that New York was just the same old mad city that it had been always. Children were dying in the slums for lack of proper food and clothing; scheming and plundering as always; and everybody too busy to bother. On every side was the mad money rush."

"Business men everywhere were saying that what America needed was more 'production'—production of goods, production of profits, production of wealth—and nobody taking a bit of interest about what seemed to us the most important thing of all—the production of American citizens. Was anybody interested in the human material we were producing? Were the slums

being abolished? Was crime being routed, corruption being wiped out?—I talked to some of the others—to fellows who had been in the trenches with me, to people like Miss Evans here, who had been over with the Red Cross—and we found we all had the same sort of feeling. The America we had been so proud of, the America we had so gladly fought for, was going to rot in a wild, senseless scramble for money. The old ideals of honor and honesty seemed to have vanished. We heard boys and girls even talking about things they had 'put over' and 'gotten away with.'"

"We knew that we had done something—something big, perhaps—for America in the war. As we talked among ourselves, we decided if there was not something bigger we could do for America in peace. The war had given us a better understanding of our fellow men. When you have fought side by side with the fellow who used to sweep the streets in front of your home you come to realize that he is a human being like yourself, with pretty much the same faults and the same desires."

"As we looked at New York with reopened eyes it seemed a pretty hopeless place for boys and girls to grow up in if they were to become good American citizens with high ideals."

He paused for a moment and all the room was silent.

"We came back," he continued, "and it appealed to us to discover that New York was just the same old mad city that it had been always. Children were dying in the slums for lack of proper food and clothing; scheming and plundering as always; and everybody too busy to bother. On every side was the mad money rush."

"Business men everywhere were saying that what America needed was more 'production'—production of goods, production of profits, production of wealth—and nobody taking a bit of interest about what seemed to us the most important thing of all—the production of American citizens. Was anybody interested in the human material we were producing? Were the slums

being abolished? Was crime being routed, corruption being wiped out?—I talked to some of the others—to fellows who had been in the trenches with me, to people like Miss Evans here, who had been over with the Red Cross—and we found we all had the same sort of feeling. The America we had been so proud of, the America we had so gladly fought for, was going to rot in a wild, senseless scramble for money. The old ideals of honor and honesty seemed to have vanished. We heard boys and girls even talking about things they had 'put over' and 'gotten away with.'"

"We knew that we had done something—something big, perhaps—for America in the war. As we talked among ourselves, we decided if there was not something bigger we could do for America in peace. The war had given us a better understanding of our fellow men. When you have fought side by side with the fellow who used to sweep the streets in front of your home you come to realize that he is a human being like yourself, with pretty much the same faults and the same desires."

"As we looked at New York with reopened eyes it seemed a pretty hopeless place for boys and girls to grow up in if they were to become good American citizens with high ideals."

He paused for a moment and all the room was silent.

"We came back," he continued, "and it appealed to us to discover that New York was just the same old mad city that it had been always. Children were dying in the slums for lack of proper food and clothing; scheming and plundering as always; and everybody too busy to bother. On every side was the mad money rush."

"Business men everywhere were saying that what America needed was more 'production'—production of goods, production of profits, production of wealth—and nobody taking a bit of interest about what seemed to us the most important thing of all—the production of American citizens. Was anybody interested in the human material we were producing? Were the slums

being abolished? Was crime being routed, corruption being wiped out?—I talked to some of the others—to fellows who had been in the trenches with me, to people like Miss Evans here, who had been over with the Red Cross—and we found we all had the same sort of feeling. The America we had been so proud of, the America we had so gladly fought for, was going to rot in a wild, senseless scramble for money. The old ideals of honor and honesty seemed to have vanished. We heard boys and girls even talking about things they had 'put over' and 'gotten away with.'"

"We knew that we had done something—something big, perhaps—for America in the war. As we talked among ourselves, we decided if there was not something bigger we could do for America in peace. The war had given us a better understanding of our fellow men. When you have fought side by side with the fellow who used to sweep the streets in front of your home you come to realize that he is a human being like yourself, with pretty much the same faults and the same desires."

"As we looked at New York with reopened eyes it seemed a pretty hopeless place for boys and girls to grow up in if they were to become good American citizens with high ideals."

He paused for a moment and all the room was silent.

"We came back," he continued, "and it appealed to us to discover that New York was just the same old mad city that it had been always. Children were dying in the slums for lack of proper food and clothing; scheming and plundering as always; and everybody too busy to bother. On every side was the mad money rush."

"Business men everywhere were saying that what America needed was more 'production'—production of goods, production of profits, production of wealth—and nobody taking a bit of interest about what seemed to us the most important thing of all—the production of American citizens. Was anybody interested in the human material we were producing? Were the slums

being abolished? Was crime being routed, corruption being wiped out?—I talked to some of the others—to fellows who had been in the trenches with me, to people like Miss Evans here, who had been over with the Red Cross—and we found we all had the same sort of feeling. The America we had been so proud of, the America we had so gladly fought for, was going to rot in a wild, senseless scramble for money. The old ideals of honor and honesty seemed to have vanished. We heard boys and girls even talking about things they had 'put over' and 'gotten away with.'" ideals. The city was in the hands of a corrupt, powerful band, plundering the people, corrupting the citizens, spreading its slimy, poisonous trail everywhere.

"We knew that we had done something—something big, perhaps—for America in the war. As we talked among ourselves, we decided if there was not something bigger we could do for America in peace. The war had given us a better understanding of our fellow men. When you have fought side by side with the fellow who used to sweep the streets in front of your home you come to realize that he is a human being like yourself, with pretty much the same faults and the same desires."

"What could we do about it? We had youth, enthusiasm, fighting experience—some of us had money. We thought of going into politics but what was the use? It would take too long. We wanted to do something right away, to strike a quick, decisive blow."

"So," said Dean, "we finally decided to fight with us, to help enforce the laws, to clean up the city thru a secret organization, every member of which had been tried and tested before he was admitted. We modeled our organization after college fraternities, with which most of us had been familiar, and we called it 'The Flying Hoof.' Its purpose being swiftly to stamp out corruption wherever we find it. There are various ranks in the membership. It includes chauffeurs, Salvation Army lasses, millionaires—but there isn't a man or woman in it who can't be depended upon to the limit. We work secretly, our plans being directed by this Inner Council of Nine—or ten. I should say, for the number has been increased because of what you have done."

"But I don't understand yet," said Suzanne, "about Judge Keaton and Epstein and Mr. Chiswick. What have you been doing to them?"

(Concluded Tomorrow.)

He paused for a moment and all the room was silent.

"We came back," he continued, "and it appealed to us to discover that New York was just the same old mad city that it had been always. Children were dying in the slums for lack of proper food and clothing; scheming and plundering as always; and everybody too busy to bother. On every side was the mad money rush."

"Business men everywhere were saying that what America needed was more 'production'—production of goods, production of profits, production of wealth—and nobody taking a bit of interest about what seemed to us the most important thing of all—the production of American citizens. Was anybody interested in the human material we were producing? Were the slums

being abolished? Was crime being routed, corruption being wiped out?—I talked to some of the others—to fellows who had been in the trenches with me, to people like Miss Evans here, who had been over with the Red Cross—and we found we all had the same sort of feeling. The America we had been so proud of, the America we had so gladly fought for, was going to rot in a wild, senseless scramble for money. The old ideals of honor and honesty seemed to have vanished. We heard boys and girls even talking about things they had 'put over' and 'gotten away with.'"

"We knew that we had done something—something big, perhaps—for America in the war. As we talked among ourselves, we decided if there was not something bigger we could do for America in peace. The war had given us a better understanding of our fellow men. When you have fought side by side with the fellow who used to sweep the streets in front of your home you come to realize that he is a human being like yourself, with pretty much the same faults and the same desires."

"As we looked at New York with reopened eyes it seemed a pretty hopeless place for boys and girls to grow up in if they were to become good American citizens with high ideals."

He paused for a moment and all the room was silent.

"We came back," he continued, "and it appealed to us to discover that New York was just the same old mad city that it had been always. Children were dying in the slums for lack of proper food and clothing; scheming and plundering as always; and everybody too busy to bother. On every side was the mad money rush."

"Business men everywhere were saying that what America needed was more 'production'—production of goods, production of profits, production of wealth—and nobody taking a bit of interest about what seemed to us the most important thing of all—the production of American citizens. Was anybody interested in the human material we were producing? Were the slums

being abolished? Was crime being routed, corruption being wiped out?—I talked to some of the others—to fellows who had been in the trenches with me, to people like Miss Evans here, who had been over with the Red Cross—and we found we all had the same sort of feeling. The America we had been so proud of, the America we had so gladly fought for, was going to rot in a wild, senseless scramble for money. The old ideals of honor and honesty seemed to have vanished. We heard boys and girls even talking about things they had 'put over' and 'gotten away with.'"

"We knew that we had done something—something big, perhaps—for America in the war. As we talked among ourselves, we decided if there was not something bigger we could do for America in peace. The war had given us a better understanding of our fellow men. When you have fought side by side with the fellow who used to sweep the streets in front of your home you come to realize that he is a human being like yourself, with pretty much the same faults and the same desires."

"As we looked at New York with reopened eyes it seemed a pretty hopeless place for boys and girls to grow up in if they were to become good American citizens with high ideals."

He paused for a moment and all the room was silent.

"We came back," he continued, "and it appealed to us to discover that New York was just the same old mad city that it had been always. Children were dying in the slums for lack of proper food and clothing; scheming and plundering as always; and everybody too busy to bother. On every side was the mad money rush."

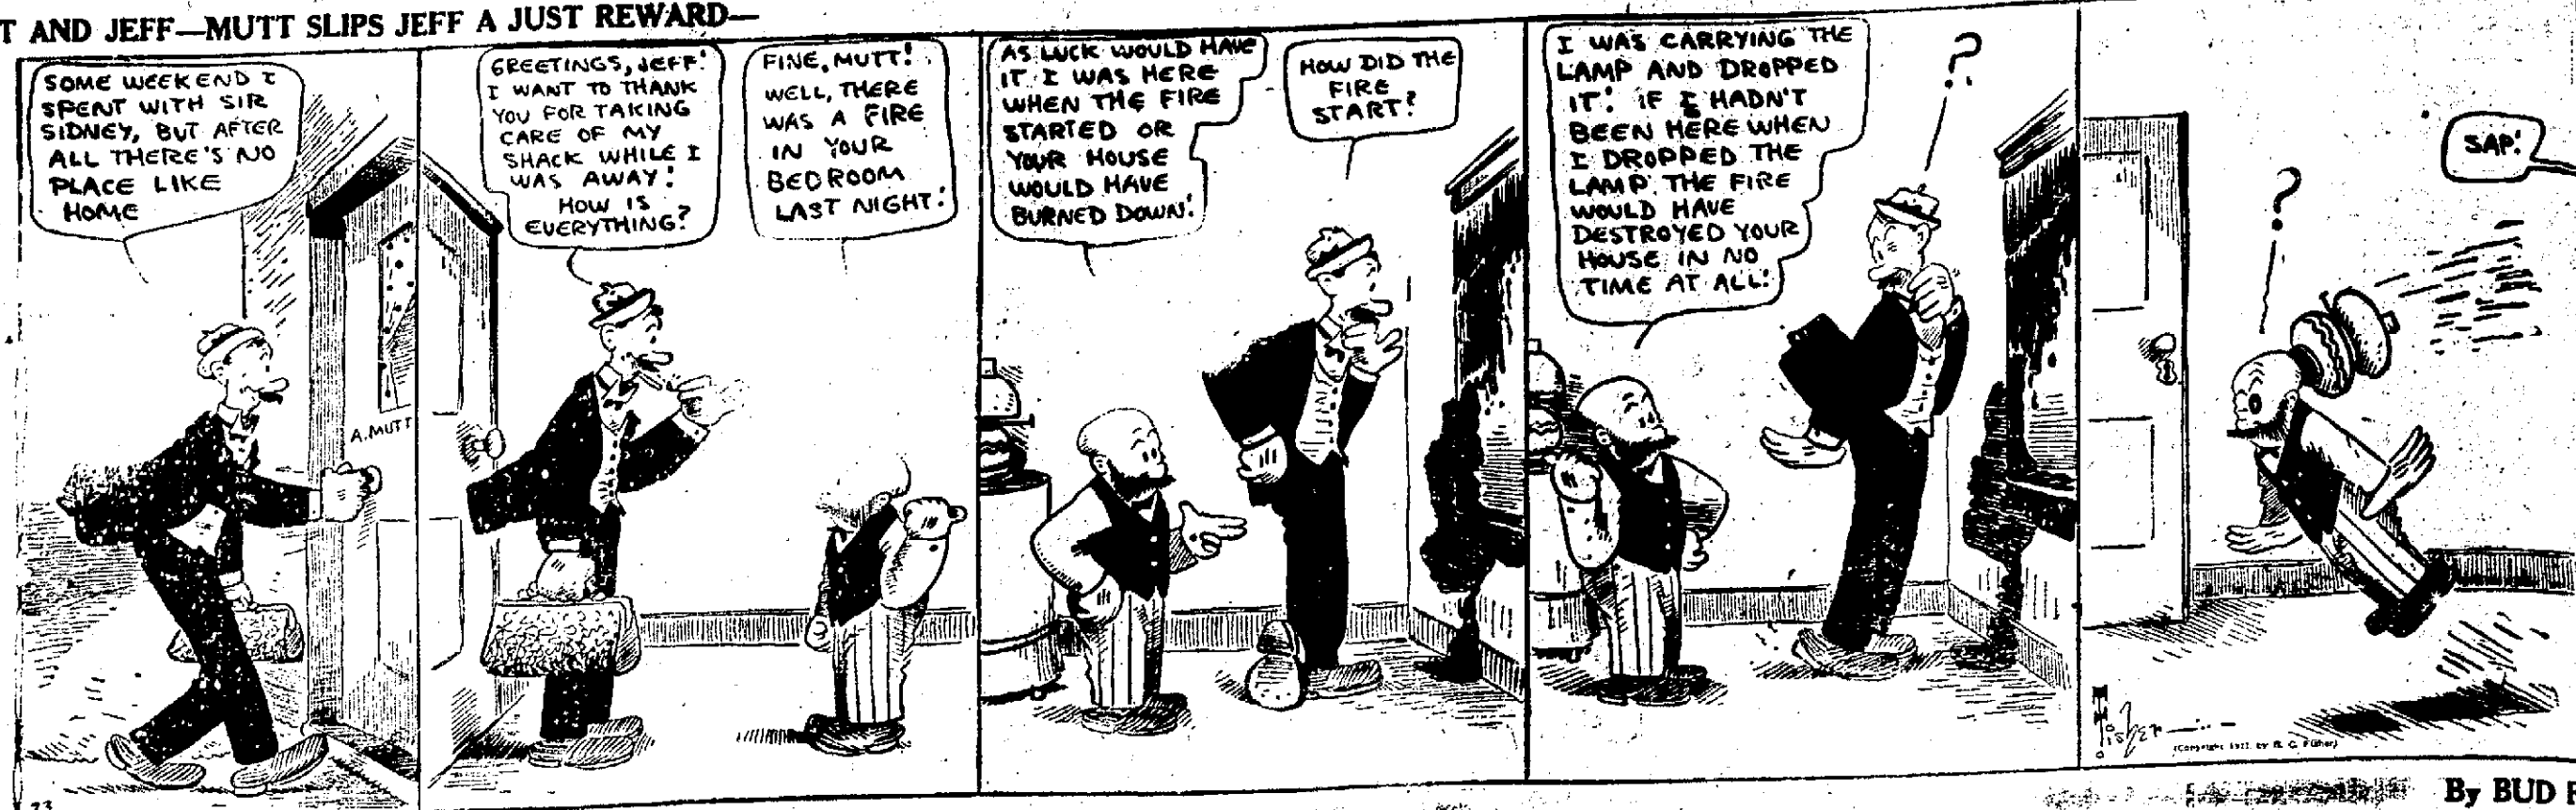

"Business men everywhere were saying that what America needed was more 'production'—production of goods, production of profits, production of wealth—and nobody taking a bit of interest about what seemed to us the most important thing of all—the production of American citizens. Was anybody interested in the human material we were producing? Were the slums

being abolished? Was crime being routed, corruption being wiped out?—I talked to some of the others—to fellows who had been in the trenches with me, to people like Miss Evans here, who had been over with the Red Cross—and we found we all had the same sort of feeling. The America we had been so proud of, the America we had so gladly fought for, was going to rot in a wild, senseless scramble for money. The old ideals of honor and honesty seemed to have vanished. We heard boys and girls even talking about things they had 'put over' and 'gotten away with.'"

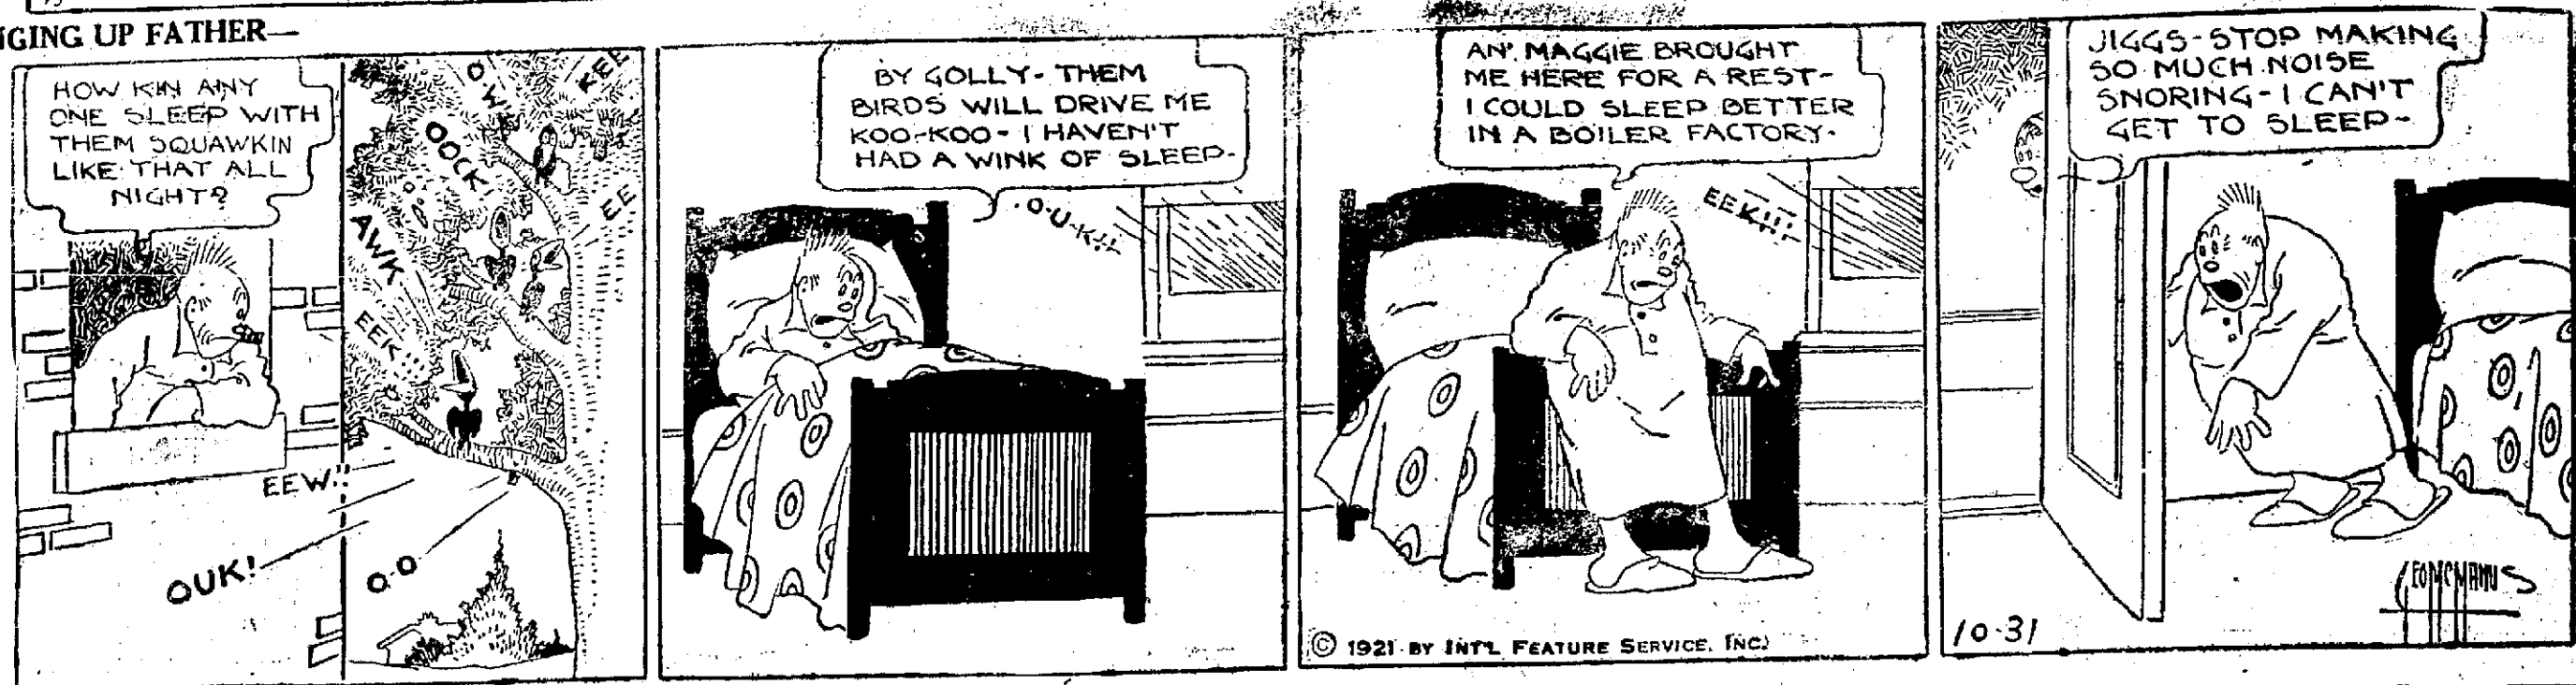

"We knew that we had done something—something big, perhaps—for America in the war. As we talked among ourselves, we decided if there was not something bigger we could do for America in peace. The war had given us a better understanding of our fellow men. When you have fought side by side with the fellow who used to sweep the streets in front of your

MONDAY, OCTOBER 31

MUTT AND JEFF—MUTT SLIPS JEFF A JUST REWARD—

BRINGING UP FATHER—

SHORT SHAVINGS

E. F. Stallsmith, boy scout executive, tells of a woman in his neighborhood who found a recipe in her cook book for making peach stone brandy. Having purchased a bushel of free stone peaches, she cracked the stones and used them according to directions, rather than throw them away.

Wishing to learn the merits of the liquor, she carried a glass of it to a neighbor next door. Stallsmith states that the man was reading a newspaper and that a few minutes after he drank the brandy, the paper seemed to grow larger, until it was the size of a horse blanket.

Visitors report that C. W. Clark, Wapakoneta barber, has a white log-horn rooster that does the work of a watchdog.

The rooster sleeps perched on the porch rail at night and if anybody enters the yard, he wakes up and crows.

Francis Durbin reports the thrilling experience of an excitable young man who occupied an aisle seat in a movie theatre, near him.

"The film story was portraying a bank robbery, when an usher flashed on his searchlight to show other people into the row of seats," says Durbin. The young man threw up his hands and shouted, "Don't shoot!"

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

PISO'S SAFE AND SAFE for Coughs & Colds

This syrup is different from all others. Quick relief. No opiates. 35c each bottle.

Bob Shaw, manager at the Orpheum theatre, started to sit down in a child's rocking chair.

"You can't get into that," said others in the room.

"But I did," says Shaw. "The difficulty developed when I tried to get out of the chair."

REFRIGERATION and ICE

With TRIUMPH Equipment and HUNN Metallic Packing is the most Economical in Large and Small Plants.

ELECTRIC MOTORS CALCIUM-CHLORIDE

Fittings, Packings and Supplies carried in Stock.

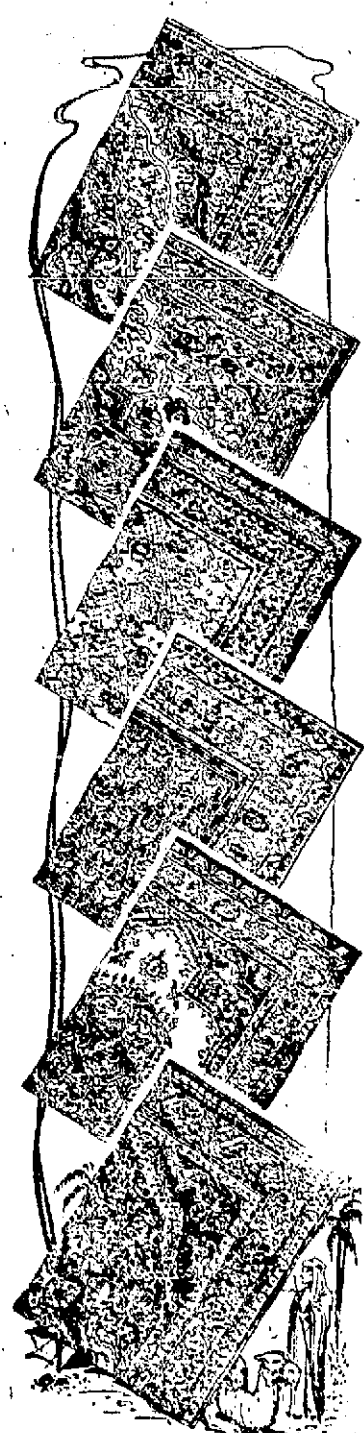

UNION ICE MACHINE CO.

Wire Dayton, Ohio Write

Had your iron today?

Eat more raisins

BOARD OF 4 RECORDS READY

Rug Prices Are Lowest at Rowlands

Several beautiful patterns of 9-12 velvet brussels rugs, floral and oriental designs. Specially priced at

$32.50

Splendid assortment of beautiful axminster room size rugs. Green, tan, rose and blue colors. Specially priced at $47.50

Small Rugs

Good grade brussels, 27x34 inches. Specially

$24.4

STOVES Priced Low at ROWLANDS

We have sold and guaranteed the famous Peninsula heating stoves and ranges for 29 years. You are assured absolute satisfaction when you purchase a Peninsula. Heating stoves priced low as

$24.00

COZY ALCAZAR HEATERS

$19.50 AND UP

FLORENCE OIL COOK STOVES AND HEATERS

More heat-Less care

Let us show you how the powerful burners direct the intensely hot blue flame close up under the cooking and why the Florence means more heat and less care.

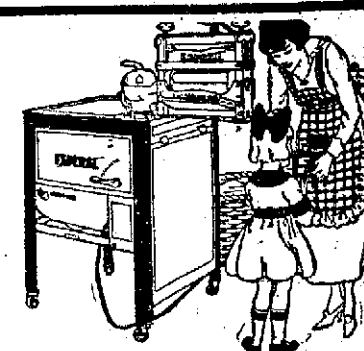

at Rowlands TUESDAY COME AND HEAR THE

Victor Records

The Talented Musicians Have Selected This Service Is All Free to You.

The Entire New November Record List on Sale Tuesday

Join Our Christmas Victor Victrola Savings Club—Small Weekly Payments—Delivery Anytime Between Now and Christmas.

"Wash day is so different now!"

MONDAY used to be a "nightmare." When John came home, he found a makeshift meal and me too tired to be agreeable.

Now it is all so different. My Federal Electric Washer does the work. I put the clothes into the washer and in an hour or two the week's washing is on the line, cleaner than if I had spent the day rubbing it over a washboard.

Made of Armco Ingot Iron (rust resisting), the Federal will give you years of satisfactory service.

Only a small payment down Balance in small monthly payments.

Rowland's FEDERAL Electric Washer

"Everything for the Home" 29 Years of Square Dealing

ROWLANDS

YOUR CREDIT IS GOOD 'The Hoover Sweeper Store'